Reward for 15 Years of Courage

While his wife and mother wept, A. C. Packford—a polio convalescent—realized the ambition of half a lifetime. He received from the hands of Dr. H. C. Gunning, president of the Association of Professional Engineers and dean of applied science at UBC, his engineering certificate. He had studied for it for 15 years, interrupted by war and illness, following his UBC graduation. At the Jubilee hospital bedside ceremony were his wife, his mother, Dr. Gunning, and his proud father, Percy Packford.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

Rescuer Wounded

Two Island Brothers Shot; Elderly Man in Custody

RCMP May Charge Attempted Murder

Special to the Colonist

QUALICUM BEACH—A 64-year-old man may be charged with attempted murder following the shooting of two brothers here yesterday afternoon.

The man, Daniel Francis O'Connor, was arrested last night and is in custody at Nanaimo.

The brothers, Daniel Parker, 15, and William Parker, 25, are both in hospital with bullet wounds in their arms. They were shot with a .32-calibre rifle.

The shooting took place about two blocks from the Qualicum Beach Hotel and a block from the CNR station.

Three shots were fired at Daniel, the younger brother, and one at William, it was reported.

LEAPED FROM BUSHES

Police said the shooting occurred when Daniel was on his way home from school. A man was reported to have leaped from the bushes and forced the young brother at gun point to accompany him up the road.

By chance Daniel's older brother came along in a car seconds later. Police said he leaped from his car, ignored threats and went after the man.

The man then fired three times at Daniel, wounding him in the hand and arm. He turned and fired once at the older brother and hit him in the upper arm.

REMOVE BULLET

Doctors were to operate last night to remove the bullet from the older brother's arm. Both brothers were reported out of danger last night.

Hunter Takes His Medicine On the Hoof

TWEED, Ont. (CP)—When farmer Burrell Bradshaw planned a two-week hunting trip he came face-to-face with the problem of supplying fresh milk for his ulcer.

He solved it by taking along his source of supply.

He hitched his best cow on the wagon before making the seven-mile trip through the bush.

The cow, he said later, seemed to enjoy the holiday as much as he did.

Smiles Follow Terror

Three children smile happily after escaping fire which broke out last night at their home at 432 Powell. Alarm was given by Lorraine Robinet, left. Her sister, Dolores, centre, was in the bath, and her brother, David, five, asleep. Mother, Mrs. Carol Robinet, was also asleep.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

'Hot Potato' Discussed

B.C. Labor Spokesman Urges Policy of Tariff Protection

VANCOUVER (CP)—A powerful segment of British Columbia's labor force believes Canada should boost tariffs and restrict imports to strengthen and expand her industrial economy.

"We realize tariff policy is a hot potato, but the economy is far too open and a more closed economy would be better for Canada," said Owen Mason Friday in advancing the view of the 50,000-member Vancouver and District Trades and Labor Council (TLC-AFL) before the Gordon economic commission.

The five-member commission, charged with the job of predicting the shape of the Canadian economy over the next quarter-century, now has completed its three weeks of western hearings. It will tour the major central Canadian cities in January, sitting in Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa, before writing its report.

Accompanying council secretary-treasurer R. K. Gervin, the slim, 35-year-old Mr. Mason, council statistician and graduate of the University of London, astonished the commission with his grasp of the intricacies of monetary and fiscal machinery.

He challenged the forecast of James Coyne, governor of the bank of Canada, of a gross national product of $55,000,000,000 by 1975 and offered calculations to show productivity could rise to $80,000,000,000 without serious inflation through deficit financing and tax cuts.

He trod boldly in the field of unemployment, estimating that labor need not be alarmed as long as the country's number of jobless remains below three per cent of the labor force.

He suggested also that Canadians may be rather "puritan" in taking investment risks and proposed insurance companies be given greater power to diversify their investment holdings.

Fire Chief

Appointed Oak Bay fire department chief is William T. Pearson, MBE, succeeding the late E. G. Clayards. Former deputy, Chief Pearson joined Oak Bay department on its organization in 1938. He resides at 1915 St. Ann.

Train Crash Kills 12

BARNES, England (AP)—Twelve persons were killed Friday night when a speeding suburban train packed with returning theatregoers plowed into a stationary freight train and exploded into flames.

More than 50 other passengers of 150 aboard the train were taken to hospital, many with serious burns.

Victims screamed as they fought to escape from the overturned front car of the passenger train as it hit the freight under a bridge near this suburban town, eight miles west of London's centre.

The impact shorted the electric cars' power circuit and the front coach was demolished. The short-circuit sent gigantic sparks soaring into the sky like rockets. Flames lit up the sky for miles around.

FLAMES SPREAD

Moments later the flames spread to rear cars of the freight train.

Passengers trapped in the blazing wreckage screamed for help as the flames quickly took hold.

Ambulances and fire engines rushed to the tracks to aid in rescue work and the flames were reported under control within a half-hour.

Pearson Spotlights Red Plot

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson, in his first speech to a Canadian audience since returning from Moscow, said Friday the Russian leaders "want more than anything else to detach Canada from the United States."

He said the Western democracies should now "concentrate more on the political and economic aspects of co-operation at least as much on the military."

Warning that the Soviet Union's views of "peaceful co-existence" was in effect a "conflict without arms," he said:

"We must above all realize we're going to have to live with this situation for a long time—this isn't a sprint. It's at least middle distance."

Church Uses Sales Force

VANCOUVER (CP) — United Church of Canada Friday announced it was adopting modern business methods to attract about 60,000 new members a year.

Naval Move Aired

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility of a semi-active naval reserve was discussed Friday at the annual naval defence conference.

The one-day conference sponsored by the Naval Officers Association of Canada discussed the possibility of a reserve made up of specialists who would be available for immediate mobilization in the event of a national emergency.

The closed meeting, under the chairmanship of T. R. (Tim) Durley of Montreal, was held at naval headquarters. Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, chief of naval staff, and other high-ranking naval officers addressed the former navy officers on various aspects of navy policy, development and operations.

Icy Disaster Menaces Ships

MONTREAL (CP)—A few ships struggled along the ice-clogged canal system to Montreal harbor Friday, but nearly 50 others remain behind a closing winter trap.

The weatherman predicted freezing weather again Friday night in the Lachine-Soulanges canals district, where heavy ice has been forming for several nights.

A queue of ships in the 22-mile system moved at a snail's pace toward the harbor. Twenty of them are ocean ships, bound for the open sea before the freeze-up. Shipping men say they will face disastrous losses if the ships are forced to winter inland.

Workers toiled away at jammed lock gates, trying to chop away the ice with long, steel-tipped poles. A canal spokesman said the ships would be moving at the rate of at least one an hour under normal conditions but only two or three lakers managed to get through Friday during daylight hours.

Feared most by ship-owners is an order that would close the canals before the scheduled Dec. 10 deadline. No official comment has been made by the transport department on this possibility.

Some 50 inland and ocean freighters were blocked in the canal system from the bridge at Cote St. Paul to the western end of the Soulanges waterway at Coteau Landing.

Iron Curtain Trade Urged

CALGARY (CP)—The Alberta Wheat Pool Friday unanimously endorsed a resolution calling for trade with countries behind the Iron Curtain.

The recommendation, adopted in the final day of the pool's annual convention, said that despite criticism from some quarters, Canada should be prepared to trade with all countries, including Iron Curtain satellites.

French Vote Set Jan. 2

PARIS (UP)—Premier Edgar Faure today called a new election Jan. 2 to decide the struggle for political power between himself and Pierre Mendes-France.

'Thank God for TV'

Child Saves Family From House Blaze

By CHRIS FOSTER

Seven-year-old Lorraine Robinet, staying up to watch television, gave the alarm last night when fire struck at her home at 432 Powell.

"Thank God for television," said her mother, Mrs. Carol Robinet, who was sleeping after a hard day's work.

Lorraine's nine-year-old sister, Dolores, was in the bath, and her brother, David, five, was in bed.

All three children were safely evacuated and spent the night with neighbors.

HUSBAND OUT

Mrs. Robinet's husband, Sgt. Bert Robinet, Queen's Own Rifles, was preparing a regimental dinner at his barracks at the time.

Flames severely damaged the living room, where dark-haired Lorraine was sitting, and the kitchen.

"The fire started in the basement," said Lorraine.

"It was just after nine o'clock. I tried to wake David and my mother. They wouldn't wake up, but I kept shaking them. They soon got up when they realized there was a fire."

Her sister, Dolores, said: "I had just got out of the bath when I heard Lorraine shouting.

"I opened the bathroom door and saw the smoke. I rushed into the living room and grabbed a blanket to put around me."

One of the Robinet's two pet budgerigars was saved but the other escaped and was lost.

The family's dog, Micki, also escaped.

Noted Columns Coming

The two outstanding columnists in their fields in North America — by almost unanimous choice — appear in The Daily Colonist tomorrow for the first time.

John Crosby, the famous critic of television and radio, will be found on the entertainment pages. Red Smith an observer of the sports world for more than 30 years, will bring his syndicated column, Views of Sport, to the sports page.

Mr. Crosby writes four columns a week, and Red Smith contributes six. They will run on a regular basis except when the subject proves to be of little interest to Vancouver Island readers.

Pianist Hurt In Bus Crash

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Walter Gieseking, the German pianist who recently made a North American tour, was severely injured in a bus crash that killed two persons and injured 13 others near here Friday.

Threat to Spawning Fish

Group Declares Fraser Dam Would Kill $50,000,000 Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — Construction of power dams on the Fraser river would wipe out British Columbia's $50,000,000-a-year salmon fishing industry, a newly-formed conservation group said in a statement here Friday.

The organization, known as the Preserve Our Resources Society, criticized proposals to build a series of hydro dams along the Fraser and suggested instead a full investigation of the upper Columbia river, which has no fish problem.

A. E. Grauer, president of B.C. Power Corporation, said in July last his company was surveying possible power sites at 10 points along the Fraser and Thompson rivers.

The resources society said power dams would delay salmon moving upstream to spawning grounds.

"Delay of even a few days can cut down spawning efficiency of salmon as much as 40 per cent. Any longer delay usually results in the death of fish before they reach the spawning ground," the society said.

Although the group estimated the cost of a power line from Mica creek on the Columbia to Vancouver would be twice that of a line from Cisco, 170 miles northeast of here, the conservationists said long-line, high-voltage transmission of electricity had been proved practical for distance up to 1,000 miles in Sweden.

Year-End Fun Spills into '56

Tacit approval for public New Year's Eve parties to continue to 2 a.m. Sunday is given in instructions issued by the attorney-general's department.

Celebration of New Year's Eve on Saturday, Dec. 31 is a matter for local police administration it was stated.

"In view of former practice, however, the attorney-general's department does not expect to receive complaints about public parties conducted up to 2 a.m. Jan. 1, an official said.

In night clubs, however, no liquor will be sold after midnight on New Year's Eve.

Government liquor stores will be closed Dec. 26 and 27 and also Jan. 2. Private clubs, cocktail bars, and beer parlors will be closed on Monday, Dec. 26.

'Comrade Lord Mayor . . .

. . . And Fascist Warmongers'

Red Chiefs' Tour Wins British Jibes

(From AP, UP)

LONDON — Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev may have been winning friends in Asia but their visit to India has cost them a loss of dignity in many British eyes.

The visit of Premier Bulganin and party chief Khrushchev to London, planned for the spring, already is the subject of biting newspaper humor. A cartoon in The Daily Mail showed a pudgy Khrushchev addressing a stiffly formal banquet in London's ancient Guildhall. The Communist boss begins: Comrade lord mayor, reactionary lords, ladies and imperialist fascist warmongers." Bulganin and a guest resembling Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the "Red" Dean of Canterbury, look pleased.

Historian Alan Taylor, a columnist in The Daily Herald, referred to the Russians as "the two knockabout comedians who have just been touring India."

Taylor deplored the suggestion it would be better if Bulganin and Khrushchev did not come to London in view of their attacks on the West before Indian audiences.

"On the contrary," Taylor wrote. "I can hardly wait to hear some new pearls of their wisdom."

A semi-official organ of the Church of England said it strongly opposed the scheduled visit.

The newspaper, in an editorial on the current tour of the Soviet leaders, asked its readers if they really wanted "this circus" to visit Britain.

"Are we to line the streets, mouths agape, while Khrushchev clowns with his hat, and shouts 'British, Russians, bhai, bhai'?" the newspaper asked. (Bhai is Indian for brothers. Cheering crowds in India last week hailed the Soviet visitors with cries of "Indians, Russians, bhai, bhai!")

"Or," continued the newspaper, "are we to cheer to the echo the man who has just accused us of starting the last war by employing Hitler and his troops against Russia . . . ?"

Khrushchev, the newspaper said, "does not impress as a genius, but even he in his sober moments may appreciate certain things."

"Bring him to London for a visit will not alter those truths and will only confuse the issue because it will not correspond with any realities."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A truck was drawn up to the curb. New people were moving into the corner house that night. I stopped on the sidewalk to let two men pass by, carrying a chesterfield.

As they vanished into the dim interior of the house, a child's [illegible] wagon,

It was a cry of grief. The child himself was out of sight in the shadows, but a light glowing from somewhere deep in the house outlined the wagon parked on the grass in front.

This was a very small red wagon, and it had a tilt to the left side, a kind of list to port. Apparently one front wheel was crippled. Maybe it had been smashed in transit by a piece of heavy furniture.

* * *

(So the wagon stood there by itself while the men carried in the more useful things. And the boy uttered his thin cry of distress.)

I didn't hear any more from him. A man said: "We'll handle the heavy stuff first, and then we can get the rest of it shifted around."

Little boys can be a nuisance on moving day. They get under foot. There isn't time to nurse them along, and answer all their questions.

But as I walked past, trying to look as though I was minding my own business, I was haunted by the notion of a small figure standing bewildered among the jumble of [illegible] of a strange house, and crying for his broken wagon.

That cry rang in my head for a long time afterwards. There was real pain in it; the pain of a little boy who doesn't understand.

* * *

The wagon was one of the most important objects in his world. Perhaps he had it for his birthday. In the house where he used to live, he trundled it around with a cargo of odds and ends, playing at being a truck driver. It had acquired a personality. To the boy, the wagon was a creature, not a thing.

Now he was in another house, at night, and the wagon was broken, and the grown-ups bustled around as though nothing was wrong.

When these people are settled in their house, I hope they will find time to fix the wheel. But perhaps the boy has forgotten about it by now.

Gas-Generated Power Plan for Prince George

A plan to use natural gas to generate electric power in the Prince George region is being proposed by the B.C. Power Commission to officials of the interior city.

Commission chairman T. H. Crosby was expected to make an announcement before the Prince George board of trade last night.

The commission has decided to supply power from a thermal plant fired by natural gas instead of developing a hydro-electric source at the present time.

If the need grows in future years, it is expected a hydro plant may be developed then.

The commission has studied 22 possible hydro sites in the central interior. In nine of the sites there would be interference with fish runs and in the others the cost would be too high for present needs.

Electricity is generated and distributed at present by a city-owned utility. For the past year the city and the BCPC have been working under a partnership agreement to find a new source of power. If the city accepts the new proposal, the commission would buy the municipal utility.

The thermal plant would have a capacity of 15,000 to 20,000 horsepower and cost between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Generating capacity could be added in stages so that eventually the plant would have an 80,000 hp capacity.

Scurrah Says:

Let Grant Pay for Bridge

Finding necessary funds to go ahead with the proposed Point Ellice bridge would be no problem if Victoria went to the provincial government asking for a larger capital city grant, mayoralty candidate Percy Scurrah said last night.

He told a meeting of James Bay voters "I believe our ministers in the provincial government are fair-minded men" and if approached in a proper way would consider a more substantial grant.

Mr. Scurrah detailed his 12-point platform to a small audience concluding that he would like to see the present secrecy by-law "overhauled."

Aldermanic candidate Elmer McEwen suggested a police school be started by the provincial government or some agency to train police officers in a proper and efficient way, similar to the RCMP school.

The meeting was concluded with brief speeches by aldermanic candidates Afd. M. H. Mooney, Mrs. Lily Wilson, Miss Jane Hall and Hugh Ramsay.

Adopted Boys Denied To Natural Parents

TORONTO (CP) Realization of what they had done happened too late for Mr. and Mrs. Herman Maat.

They learned Friday that papers they signed, giving up their twin sons for adoption 17 months ago, deprived them forever of their children.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven Friday denied a motion by the Maats for their children's return. He ordered that the boys remain with their foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Hepton of nearby Cooksville.

The decision, Mr. Justice Treleaven said, was rendered "not without a very sympathetic consideration of the feelings of the natural parents." It ended for the time being at least, efforts of the Maats to regain custody of the boys. They may still appeal.

Mr. Justice Treleaven ruled that adoption-consent papers which the Maats signed after the babies were born were binding.

The Maats said they had given up the twins at birth, in 1954, because of difficult financial and environmental circumstances. Later, they said, they realized they had done the wrong thing, and sought desperately to get them back.

They said they tried for several months to find out where the twins were and when they found them, they tried to take them home but the police wouldn't let them.

They started legal proceedings. When the case went before Mr. Justice Treleaven a month ago, he commented it would take the wisdom of a Solomon to solve and warned one of the parties would be hurt.

Mrs. Maat was more shocked than hurt Friday. She refused to believe a reporter who told her of the decision.

"I can't believe it. I won't believe it," she said.

Meanwhile, the Heptons, who obtained the twins after nine years of childless marriage, rejoiced at the thought the twins would be theirs.

"It's the best Christmas present we could possibly have," said Mr. Hepton.

Bird Bandits Strip Ash

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

With all the talk about masked bandits operating in our fair city, I never met up with such a pack of inveterate thieves as the birds in our neighborhood.

They stripped our Mountain Ash before the berries colored full scarlet, which was something of a disappointment, as we were planning on making up a batch of rowanberry jelly this year to serve with cold meat.

I've been trying to get some seed from our winter-flowering Viburnum fragrans, too, but the little black "prunes" are borne very sparingly, and even these few are gobbled up by the birds before they mature. Even the Pyracantha is not proof against their insatiable appetites.

I suppose we shouldn't grudge the birds their vitamins from our ornamental berries—they do such yoeman service in keeping our insect pests and slugs under control. In any case, digestion by birds is often a necessary preliminary to germination with many of our berried shrubs, and other gardens in our neighborhood may benefit from self-sown seedlings of our favorite shrubs spread by our feathered friends.

One shrub which doesn't seem to be too popular with the birds is the Barberry—I can't imagine why, for the berries make a very good jelly. Incidently, these lovely shrubs are excellent subjects for hedges and screens.

They are not in the least particular as to soil or situation, and stand up well even under smog, soot, and industrial fumes, while they are colorful for quite a few months of the year. For hedges, I am particularly taken with Berberis Prattii and Berberis Thunbergii.

POPULAR SHRUB

At the other end of the scale, the most popular shrub in my garden with the birds is the Partridgeberry, Leycesteria formosa, sometimes known as Grandmother's Ringlets because of the way the fruit hangs down in curls.

There is a bit of mystery attached to this, for the plant is from the Himalayas, and I am sure our birds had never encountered it until I grew a couple from seed imported from England, yet they greeted it as a superb delicacy as soon as the first berries matured.

COUNTER ATTRACTION

It seems to me this would be an excellent shrub to grow as a counter attraction near cherries and other fruits despoiled by birds, for the berries are produced over a very long period, July to October, and the shrub itself is quick and easy to grow from seed, making six feet of height and fruiting in its second year.

Hillary Too Busy To Climb

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Sir Edmund Hillary, one of the two men who climbed Mount Everest, said yesterday there were a lot of fine peaks to be climbed in the Antarctic region, but he would be too busy with other matters in the area to do much climbing for a while.

Sir Edmund arrived here Friday on his way to Montevideo, Uruguay, where he will join a British Antarctic expedition. He is scheduled to leave tonight.

The British expedition will set up bases for a combined British and New Zealand foray next year. Sir Edmund said that in December, 1956, "We will carry out further geographical and scientific exploration and I will head the New Zealand group which will start out from the Ross sea to meet the British approaching from the other side of the Antarctic ice cap."

The combined British-New Zealand expedition plans to cross the entire Antarctic by dog-sled. Sir Edmund said that "once we have established our main base, we may push on to the south pole, or climb some of the peaks nearby."

The expedition will explore and map as large an area of the south polar continent as possible.

When asked if his feat of climbing Mount Everest with the Sherpa guide Tenzing had made any difference in his life, Sir Edmund replied that "most of the ballyhoo has died down now."

'Expediency' Under Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Nationalist China's delegate accused Canada Friday of burying its scruples for the sake of widening UN membership.

T. F. Tsiang charged in the General Assembly's special political committee that Canada and other countries had abandoned their opposition to "package deals" in the interests of expediency.

Tsiang quoted from past Canadian statements in an effort to discredit a 29-power resolution calling for the simultaneous admission of five Communist and 13 non-Communist countries to the UN.

Comet III Streaks To Cairo

CAIRO (Reuters) — The Comet III, Britain's new jet airliner, streaked from London to Cairo Friday in five hours and five minutes on the first stage of a maiden overseas flight around the world.

The time equalled the record officially set in April, 1950, for the 2,213-mile trip by the ill-fated Comet I, which was withdrawn from service after two exploded in midair over the Mediterranean with a loss of 56 lives.

Pilot John Cunningham, setter of the original record, piloted the new experimental jet during the flight from London. He said the flight took 17 minutes longer than expected because strong tail winds failed to materialize.

Cunningham said the flight was smooth throughout.

The jet airliner, built by the de Havilland Aircraft Company, is a prototype for the more powerful Comet IV, Britain's main hope in international jet competition.

It will take off for Bombay, India, today in the second leg of the world-girdling flight.

Its destination is Australia, and it is expected to return to Britain via Canada and the United States.

Two-Hour Wrangle by Council Torpedoes Zoning Law for '55

City council sat down yesterday to study Victoria's proposed new zoning by-law clause by clause.

It rose two hours later in an angry mood after advancing through less than 1/6 pages of the 69 it must study.

The meeting developed into one of the worst wrangles of the year, and the final decision, to send the by-law to the city solicitor for proper legal wording, appeared to end any possibility of passage this year.

Council completed its consideration of the first page—five clauses and a preface concerning definitions suggested by the mayor—in 28 minutes, and in moderate harmony.

On the second page, omission of a figure four in brackets led to a dispute over the necessity of such figures. Mayor Claude L. Harrison said such figures only made a by-law bigger and harder to understand.

The mayor also proposed that the wording be changed in other respects to make it more workable legally.

ALL RESPONSIBLE

Council had got to the third clause on page 2, with a warning from the mayor that "you're all responsible for this, everyone of you," when he said he would like to go back to the preface.

"We've already passed this," Ald W. F. Pinfold said.

"But in committee you can always go back," said the mayor.

The first preface read: For the purposes of this by-law the following definitions shall have the meanings following:"

The mayor proposed changing this to: "For the purposes of this by-law the following words shall have the following meanings:" and City Solicitor A. J. Patton suggested adding "unless the context otherwise requires."

The original preface was rescinded by a 5-4 vote after considerable hubbub, but council rejected by another 5-4 vote a motion by Ald. J. D. Smith to substitute the wording suggested by the mayor.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow came up with a plan for underlining a caption, "Definitions," and then defining definitions, in the same style as other definitions.

But this led to further argument, in the midst of which Ald. Arthur Dowell was heard murmuring, "Bunch of technicalities—we'll never get through."

An hour after council started work, Ald. Brent Murdoch moved that the whole by-law be referred to the city solicitor so that he could perfect it from the legal-wording point of view and return it to council with authority to engage any outside help he needed.

The motion led to another hour's argument.

"We came here to go through the by-law clause by clause," said Ald. W. F. Pinfold, "I am not a legal expert and we have no others here but the mayor. I think we should go through the by-law making whatever policy changes we think necessary and then the by-law should go back to the city solicitor to be put in proper legal form."

Ald. Dowell said the measure had already been before every department head including the city solicitor and "we are debating technicalities that don't amount to a hill of beans."

Ald. Smith also favored making policy changes before technical changes.

The mayor asked city clerk [illegible] been submitted to all department heads for study.

No, said Mr. Hunter—only certain department heads who felt they were affected by the administration of the by-law, and they were consulted on points that affected them.

Ald. Edgelow said he would like to know why, since council had ordered that the measure should be studied by all department heads.

The mayor said it was patent that the by-law had been prepared and then submitted to the city solicitor and that the city solicitor had not drawn it up.

"I don't see why we should argue over words in every page and section," said Ald. Curtis. He suggested that points in the by-law to which any alderman objected should be discussed, and then it should go to the city solicitor. But Ald. Smith reminded him that council must go clause by clause.

Ald. Edgelow urged council to proceed with policy changes only, but Ald. Murdoch and the mayor said it should go to the solicitor first to be put in the proper legal terms.

Ald. Mooney asked City Solicitor Patton how long it would take him to put the by-law in shape. That was difficult to answer, said Mr. Patton.

"A year?" asked Ald. Mooney.
"No."
"Six months?"
"No."
"Two months?"
"No."
"A month?"
"Possibly."
"Two weeks?"
"I can't say."

Then there were murmurs of "That's unfair."

ADVISORY BODY

Ald. Robert Macmillan said the trouble was that the by-law was drawn up by an advisory board and should never have come to committee of the whole council in its present form.

Ald. Dowell thought council should go ahead and discuss the by-law. Ald. Pinfold said he agreed, but what was the use if it was going to be blocked with legal technicalities.

That one stung the mayor, who said it wasn't the sort of comment that should come from a senior alderman.

"I think it's disgraceful, and the alderman should apologise," he said.

Ald. Pinfold refused.

Finally, Ald. Murdoch's motion to refer the by-law to the city solicitor was put to the vote, and only Aldermen Edgelow and Dowell voted against it.

Ald. Edgelow asked Mr. Patton if it would help him in wording the by-law if council proceeded with policy changes.

"Not one little bit," said Mr. Patton.

Ald. Mooney asked Ald. Macmillan if he didn't think the by-law should be discussed before it went to the city solicitor.

Ald. Macmillan said that if other aldermen would keep their mouths shut for 15 minutes he would tell them what he thought.

Ald. Mooney moved that Ald. Macmillan should be heard—but only he and Ald. Dowell voted in favor. That ended the meeting.

Swedes Amplify Reports on Sex

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The Swedish foreign office distributed at the request of the national school board Friday an outline of the country's compulsory program of sex instruction.

The statement quoted from a handbook for teachers:

"All stages of sex education shall stress the importance of love, linking parents and children together [illegible] this connection as early as in the lower grades. This applies to all stages of sex education which should emphasize the happiness of the home as the focal point of sex life and reproduction."

But the handbook warns that teaching about "the protected areas within marriage" is not enough. It says:

"The older pupils must quite definitely be informed on certain existing abuses in life, so that they may be aware of them and be able to resist them when confronted with them later. . . .

"You should not lay down the law of abstinence during adolescence without motivation. It should of course be frankly and clearly stated that abstinence should be observed but it should also be made clear what the results might be if abstinence is not observed. Only then can the necessity of continence appear in the right light.

"Continence in youth should be strongly stressed. . . . It must be made clear to the pupils it is better to start a home and family early, even in modest circumstances, than to start an irresponsible sex life without any ties."

Dr. C. W. Herlitz, the chief school doctor, said in a supplementary statement that sex instructions start as early as the children's first year in school, at 7 or 8.

"Even at this stage they must be protected from receiving such knowledge of sex from adults or school friends as may give them a feeling of dread and a sense of guilt," he explains.

Bureau Begins Work of Mercy

The Christmas Bureau, smallest of the 17 Community Chest agencies in Greater Victoria, has begun to tackle its annual mass of paper work, out of which comes happiness for many needy families on Christmas morning.

Mrs. Frederick Bliss, bureau chairman, said yesterday letters has been sent to 105 health and welfare organizations, service clubs, women's associations, lodges and church and school groups in this area.

These groups register families and individuals they plan to assist or are unable to assist, and notify the bureau if they have funds, hampers or toys available for distribution.

Private citizens and other groups who wish to assist in any way are asked to telephone the bureau at 2-5121, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. each day until 12 noon Dec. 21.

Bureau checks all lists, said Mrs. Bliss, "to avoid duplication and to make sure that no one is left out."

"The bureau is only as effective as the use that is made of it," she said in urging early action by persons wishing to help.

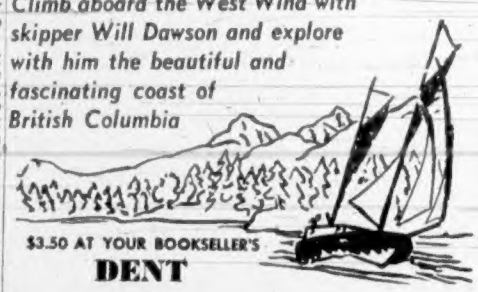

Groups or individuals wishing to assist in distribution of the gifts are also needed. Last year, hampers and toys were given to more than 200 families. In at least three homes, volunteers found that eight children were "doing without" Christmas because of lack of funds.

Esquimalt Council Wins Battle For Adequate Federal Grant

Esquimalt council's six-year battle for an adequate federal government grant ended yesterday with announcement that between $70,000 and $80,000 will be given this year—near double the grant of the last three years.

"My feeling is that we should feel very satisfied with that amount at the present time," said Reeve A. C. Wurtele. "However, it may be that the municipality will build up and then council will not be satisfied."

Grant is in lieu of taxes on federal property, and was set at less than $20,000 when inaugurated in 1951. It has been $42,000 in each of the last three years.

Announcement was made by Finance Minister Walter Harris through Dr. Frank Fairey, Victoria Liberal MP, who said the exact amount of the 1955 grant will not be calculated until early in 1956.

"I won't recommend that the extra money be used for reducing taxes," the reeve said. "It should be used for development of roads, sewers and other services in the municipality."

EARLY PAYMENT

He disclosed that Esquimalt yesterday requested an early interim payment of $42,000, but Dr. Fairey felt a cheque for a larger amount would be sent to the municipality "within a few days."

Grant was increased through an act passed at the last session of parliament.

Like the reeve and Dr. Fairey, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, was "very pleased about the increase."

But he added: "The amount suggested still doesn't begin to compensate for the loss of valuable waterfront property, which if used for industrial or residential purposes, would produce taxes far in excess of the figure the federal government proposes to pay.

Condemned Man Fights Executioners

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UP)—One of two Negro brothers about to die for the rape of an 18-year-old white girl leaped from the electric chair Friday and battled guards for 20 minutes before he was subdued and executed.

"It took six or seven of us to get him back in the chair," said Capt. Fuller Goodman, who was in charge of the execution. "I had never seen anything like it in 19 years of witnessing executions."

The condemned man, Clay Daniels, 26, had meekly walked down the corridor to the death house, accompanied by Goodman, Dr. M. Whitfield Cheatham, two lieutenants and a chaplain.

"He sat down in the chair like there was going to be no trouble," Goodman said. "But when we put the first strap on him, he leaped up.

Daniels and his 24-year-old brother, Willie, were convicted Sept. 8.

If Driver Adult

Licences May Be Renewed Months Before Expiry

Drivers' licences can be renewed any time within six months of the expiry date, officials in the motor vehicle branch said yesterday.

They were commenting on a letter in Friday's issue of The Daily Colonist which said a city man could not get his licence renewed Nov. 28 because it did not expire until the next day.

"What are people supposed to do?" asked Charles E. Gould, 2003 Cameron. "Sleep there until the licence expires or drive devoid of driver's licences?

But motor vehicle branch officials said the reason the licence was not renewed in the case in question was because the applicant was still a minor.

"He was 21 on Nov. 29 and we couldn't renew his licence the day before because the superintendent must have a parent's or guardian's consent while the applicant is still a minor."

Normally, all licences can be renewed within six months of the expiry date, it was stated.

Meanwhile it was reported that thousands of motorists are still driving without a current licence and if found are liable to a $25 fine.

The Comparison Is Illogical

MR. ROBERT WINTERS in his address here this week patted the federal back—and inferentially his own—for the amount of money spent by the national government in British Columbia. This well exceeds expenditures made by the Bennett government, he said, as though to show the beneficent nature of the Ottawa regime. It would be peculiar if the position were otherwise. The federal budget is about 20 times the size of the provincial budget, so that even if B.C. shared in federal spending only on the basis of being one province out of 10—and its population obviously implies a greater proportion—national expenditures in this province should be far in excess of provincial expenditures.

The works minister clarifies the picture no more when he takes credit for his own department's spending in B.C. over the past six years, citing among other beneficences large expenditures on the armed forces. The latter are not stationed in this province, nor are military and naval establishments maintained, simply to please British Columbia. They are here because there are national defensive reasons for having them here, and even if this means they contribute to the provincial economy that is incidental and no cause for special federal credit. Indeed, as Esquimalt has found to its cost, this can be a mixed blessing. In any case the armed forces are a national guard placed at advantageous points and B.C. merely fits into the national geography.

Mr. Winters extended the federal score to include old age, blind and other pensioners, mothers' allowances and other social welfare expenditures. Here again national and not provincial responsibilities are involved, and if as he says the Ottawa government aims to give equally to all citizens he can scarcely then recite such spending as making provincial spending seem poor by comparison. Any federal government that was in office would have to do the same, and it gets by far the largest portion of the people's tax money precisely for that purpose. If the provincial and federal budgets were equal in size there might be logic in comparing the respective expenditures of province and nation, but certainly not otherwise.

Big Fuss About Little

A STORM in a teacup has been brewed at the city hall as a result of criticism of the way members of the Corps of Commissionaires are carrying out their duty to police the parking meters. It all began with a complaint by the chief of police to the board of commissioners that his department was getting into disfavor with the public due to the large number of parking tickets that the commissionaires were issuing. This led in turn to some pointed inquiries from commissionaire officers and others about the reasons why tickets issued by the men patrolling the meters were "fixed" by the police department.

Chief Blackstock's complaint seems to have been injudicious. To begin with, it is not the business of policemen to be popular. They should not let their feelings be hurt by the "disfavor" of people who break the by-law and dislike being caught at it. Then again, how could the commissionaires do their job too well? Their duty is plain, and more credit to them for performing it conscientiously.

This town is full of motorists who by various tricks have been beating the parking regulations for years. The law is now outsmarting them at last, because there are more commissionaires than there were police officers available under the old arrangement, and because the new men are able to give the meters undivided attention. Isn't that precisely what the situation needed? The zeal of those patrolling the meters is bound to annoy some drivers—so what? The probability is that they had it coming to them.

As for the cancellation of tickets at the police station, Mayor Harrison's confidence in the chief's discretion no doubt is well founded. There are several legitimate reasons for killing a ticket just as legitimately issued; but "fix" is an ugly word and the police should be very careful who they do it for and in what circumstances.

Growing Pains in Saanich

SAANICH elections are highlighted this year by the gravel pit and sewer project issues, which undoubtedly will loom in ratepayers' minds when they come to mark their ballots. Both matters have been cited by opponents of the present municipal administration as examples of inefficiency that call for investigation and remedial action. The sewer project especially, wherein an apparent large deficit has come suddenly to light and shocked the municipality, might easily tilt the balance one way or the other.

An accounting mistake is blamed for the difference between estimate and the expected final cost. Nowadays estimates seldom match the final bill in any building project but even so the spread in this case has caused disquiet. The officials who made the mistake may be initially at fault but this does not relieve the council of its responsibility, nor can Reeve Casey claim personal absolution. While an engineering department has the task of carrying out a public works program it is presumed to function under the eye of a council committee and in the last analysis of the council as a whole. That premise is basic to responsible government on any level, and particularly so in the smaller, more intimate realm of municipal administration.

It is not easy to see how a developing deficit in the sewage program could snowball to large proportions without prior discovery in a project that has been going on for several years. Granted an initial accounting error, a logical assumption nevertheless will be that liaison was loose and that insufficient attention was paid to progressive expenditures. Probably some of Saanich's problems, in this and other matters, stem from a staff set-up suitable for more parochial times but inadequate to cope with the burgeoning present of that municipality. Events have outgrown the administrative machinery, but this again might be laid at the door of elected representatives, who are supposed to be on their toes with respect to the needs and means of carrying on municipal business.

Good Humored and Efficient

IT is about this time of the year that one notices the reactions of the public in the approach of the Christmas season. Trips, traffic and tempers all follow an upward curve. The public is busy, and rushing. In time the public trot will become a gallop, downtown. Through it all shines the good nature of the bus drivers. In Victoria that is phenomenal. We have watched drivers these last few days under conditions which might have taxed a philosopher. They have come through urbane and smiling, an example to the whole community.

Interpreting the News

Reds Embarrass Nehru

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THE crudity with which Messrs. Khrushchev and Bulganin turned their Indian goodwill tour into an anti-Western campaign is reported to have embarrassed Prime Minister Nehru and other Indian officials.

They laid out the red carpet for the visitors from Moscow, only to see them walk all over the lawn anyway.

India is trying hard to establish her neutral position in the world. It's a neutrality with leftist leanings and sympathy for Russia because Russia, too, professes to be against colonialism. But India constantly offers herself as a mediator of disputes.

* * *

To have her premises used as the base for attack by invective violates her position as a friend of all.

Nehru, who is so much "Mr. India" that his actions usually receive only praise, has been criticized by part of the Indian press for getting the country into such a position, and for his extreme efforts to glorify the Russian visit.

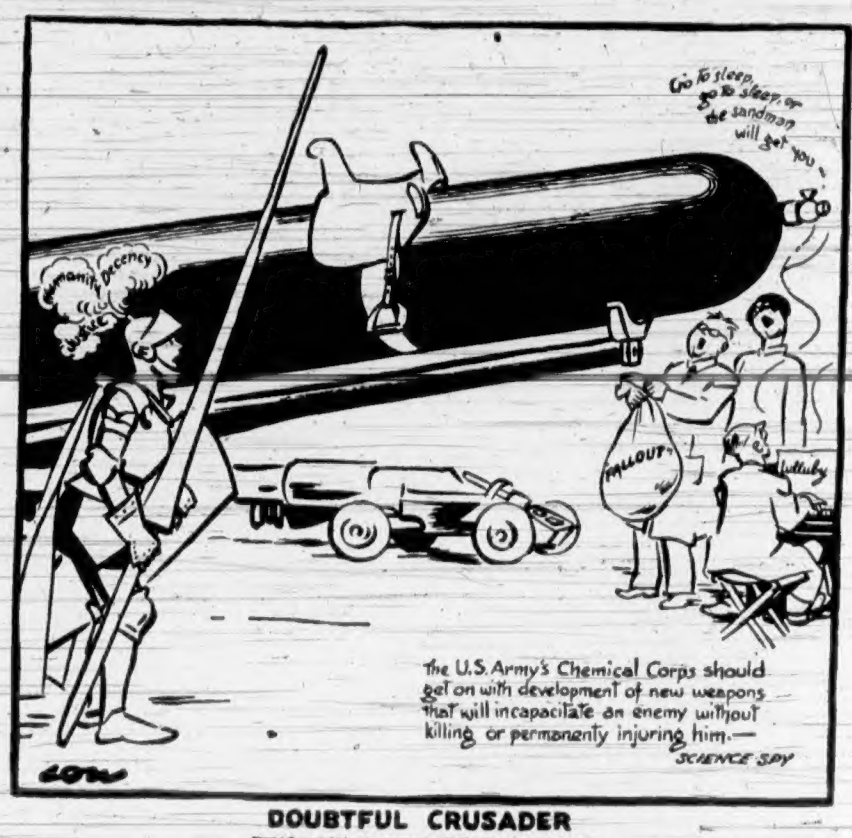

His mobilization of vast children's demonstrations has been questioned as producing indoctrination during an impressionable period which may bode ill for the country later.

For one of the strange factors in the Indian position is the firm stand taken by the government against domestic Communists while playing footsie with them in the international field.

It's as though Nehru is willing to take chances abroad, for the sake of embarrassing the West, with something he will not put up with at home.

There is evidence, however, that the Khrushchev-Bulganin visit has worked in reverse both for them and for Nehru. Right at this moment relations with the Indian government, which is firmly entrenched, would seem to be more important to Moscow than relations with the Indian people.

But the visitors seem to have made more progress with the people, while causing officials to look a great deal more closely at Russian motives. Nehru would like to balance between Russia and the West without getting his people involved.

DOUBTFUL CRUSADER

World Copyright by arrangement with the Manchester Guardian

Auditorium Venture

By FRANK KELLEY

EVIDENTLY somewhat interested in furthering such a smart idea as the erection of an auditorium that could provide suitable accommodation for the staging of popular attractions and conventions, as well as adequate seating capacity for some thousands of spectators, a reader of the Colonist recently sent me a copy of a wide-circulated U.S. publication. In it the Spokane auditorium was featured, about which Victorians heard considerable through the visit here of a gentleman from the Washington State city who was identified with the building of the Spokane auditorium and came to Victoria on the invitation of local promotors of a similar community project.

It was a copy of Life Magazine, published some 10 months ago, featuring pictures of the building and its uses on four pages of photographs and text matter, providing visual evidence of a community's well-planned and finished cultural effort, sparked by three determined citizens of the eastern Washington city, centre of an area of prosperous farming communities and itself boasting a population of 170,000, the majority of whom, according to the illustrations, could be very happy about their modern Coliseum.

* * *

Well-placed progress reports had apparently intrigued the publishers of Life to become interested in the efforts of the community to erect a building that would serve to take care of conventions and all kinds of attractions "from Spike Jones to Madame Butterfly," so the article mentioned casually. So the finished Coliseum was pictured, as well as spectacles that appeared following the opening, in the January, 1955, publication.

Acquisition of the Coliseum, according to the story, was not an overnight achievement. For years, because of no suitable building to stage spectacles of wide appeal, Spokane had been by-passed by the better travelling aggregations. At the time the pictures were taken elated throngs were packing the $2,250,000 structure, with its top seating capacity of 9,000 and standing room for another thousand, and "most efficient equipment equalled by a few other places on earth."

* * *

The story accompanying the picture spread relates that Spokane did not get the Coliseum in a hurry. It was first proposed as long ago as 1925, was turned down at the polls then and at subsequent elections. Persistent, however, in 1952, an aggressive committee of three businessmen promoted a campaign for a coliseum and managed to get backing for a bond issue approved that year. Then with the land donated and contractors working for unprecedentedly low rates, the convention centre, sports centre, concert hall, art gallery and town gathering place combined, was completed.

The Spokane Coliseum as pictured shows a structure of symmetrical lines from the outside front with its 200-foot roof, which is supported inside with uncluttered pillars, providing unobstructed views of the permanent stage. Since its opening, it has proved a success financially, the city controlling its operations. Much of its patronage is attracted from outside sources. During the opening week, 75,000 folk attended the offerings, about half being visitors.

So, making a guess at what the completion of Spokane's Coliseum has meant to that community, it does not require a great stretch of the imagination to envision the advantages that might accrue to Victoria if it possessed a structure of like features in the not-too-distant future.

Gerald Waring

Reports from Ottawa

IT has long been considered axiomatic that the economic law of supply and demand determines prices. In other words, as a rule you can't sell for high prices when there's more of the commodity offered for sale than the market will readily absorb.

Trade Minister Howe in effect denies the application of this axiom to wheat. He has a ready explanation of why wheat is an exception to the rule, and he may be right. But rightly or wrongly, he has laid down this postulation to justify the Wheat Board's prices and the government's position on wheat marketing.

"The demand for wheat is comparatively steady," he said in Calgary on Monday. "It does not respond readily to changes in prices. Cut-throat competition for markets and price slashing, even giveaways, do not therefore bring much if any increase in consumption.

"Their main effect," he continued, "is to reduce the purchasing power of (wheat) exporting countries and to drag down the level of world economic activity. . . . If the exporting countries had been firm holders (of prices) in the 1930s, the world would not have been in such a mess."

* * *

One of Howe's officials put it even more pointedly when I asked him why reduced prices would not enable the Wheat Board to sell significantly more wheat.

"Supposing the price of bread were cut by 5 cents a loaf," he said. "That would represent a tremendous reduction in the price of wheat. How much more bread would you eat?"

I had to admit I probably wouldn't eat any more. On the face of it, that seemed to prove Howe's argument. But I really don't think it is proved quite that easily. Because I wouldn't be induced to eat more merely means that 5 cents times five loaves a week is an unimportant saving to me.

Maybe a price cut wouldn't cause Canadians to eat much more bread. Our personal financial worries are usually over how to pay the next installment on the TV or the new car, rather than over how to buy enough food for our children. But I am sure that if I earned only $5 a week and many earn no more in countries to which we export wheat —I would be enticed to buy more bread.

* * *

Probably every member of Parliament hopes Howe will be successful in amending the laws of economics by ministerial decree, if that will benefit the western farmers. But many may be skeptical about whether it can be done. It's too reminiscent of King Canute's effort to amend the law of gravity as it applied to tides.

Despite preoccupation with the sales problem, Howe seldom misses an opportunity to put the situation into perspective by pointing out that we're dealing with a national blessing, not a national disaster. Big crops are to be desired, not dreaded. The fact that the wheat crop is moving slowly is regrettable, but Howe predicts it would move fast enough should Canada experience a crop failure.

In so predicting, he is tacitly admitting that after all the law of supply and demand does govern wheat prices. And should a crop disaster befall western farmers, we might well find the government reversing its arguments of this year, and telling protesting buyers that the high price of wheat is due to the immutable economic law of supply and demand.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

ONE of my backwoods friends who normally guides hunting parties during the fall passed up his sporting clients this year in favor of getting his trapping plans organized. He figures mink are going to be $25 a pelt, and he plans to take a mink a day during the coming trapping season. This, added to such other fur as he will normally collect, including beaver, a few otter and some lesser skins will give him an income on a par with other professions no more skilled than his. During the summer, when he was guiding in his territory, he saw plentiful signs of mink.

But the signs would mean little to those of us who rarely notice mink in our summer vacations in the woods. The mink is to a considerable degree a nocturnal animal. We think of it as a water creature, seldom to be found far from lake or stream. But after dark, on its feeding forays, it travels widely on land. Despite its small size, the mink is a highly courageous little beast, with plenty of the ferocity that characterizes most members of the weasel family. It backs up from few other wild creatures, and a mink on the prowl in land at night is a pretty fearsome night visitor for many of the small animals and birds that sleep o'nights.

It is of course an athletic swimmer like the otter and catches plenty of swift fish. But its talents as a hunter on land make it an amphibious killer of the front rank amongst the wild.

My backwoods friend knows the habits of the mink in water and on snore, and knows ways of trapping it in many weird and wonderful settings.

"It took me a long time to educate myself on mink," he says, "and I figure $25 is not out of the way in return for the time I have spent at it. That is, of course, providing I get one a day!"

As an aid in the propaganda war, a 50-cent phonograph which could be dropped behind the Iron Curtain has been developed. This is a happy coincidence, since the songwriters have developed a type of music that would be just right for a 50-cent phonograph.

Under the Dome

B.C.'s Crystal Ball

By RAY BAINES

PREDICTED increase in British Columbia's population to nearly 3,000,000 persons by 1975 is little less than startling when it is measured in terms of the consequences.

Figures presented by Attorney-General Robert Bonner to the Gordon Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects showed that in 20 years B.C. will have a minimum of 2,278,000 people. The estimate of 3,000,000 is a distinct possibility, but a maximum.

But taking the minimum figure alone, it is still something to consider. It represents about 75 per cent more than the 1955 population of 1,305,000.

When there are more people, there is more of everything. It will mean 75 per cent more houses, 75 per cent more cars on the road, a 75 per cent increase in retail sales, 75 per cent increase in water, electricity, fuel and food consumption, a 75 per cent increased load on provincial and municipal services and so on.

* * *

Take the school situation alone. Every time 30 children are added to the school population, there must be a new classroom and a new teacher. They both cost money.

In the 20 years to come, the school-age group will increase 100 per cent to 615,000. Of this the elementary and secondary students in public schools are expected to increase from 220,000 in 1955 to 420,000 in 1975, or 91 per cent. That is a rate of 10,000 a year. (Department of education officials have estimated this particular increase as high as 12,000 a year.) This is going to require an awful lot of classrooms and teachers.

* * *

And the University of B.C. and administrators of the university endowment lands might take note of this:

University enrolment is expected to increase by 316 per cent in the next 20 years, from 6,300 in 1955 to 26,200 in 1975!

Planned expansion on a $10,000,000 revolving fund system for UBC was begun not a moment too soon. If UBC and Victoria College are going to handle 26,000 students in 20 years, higher education in this province will really become big business.

And the predicted increase also shows a rise in pre-school-age children from 150,400 in 1955 to 267,000 in 1975.

Any way you look at it, the expected population jump is pretty staggering.

The province's working force, now 705,100 or 54.04 per cent of the population, will increase to 1,180,000 or 51.80 per cent of the expected 1975 population.

* * *

And the increase in the over-65 group will put a greater load on social services and chronic hospital needs. B.C.'s present population includes 142,800 people in the over-65 group, or about 10.94 per cent of the total. By 1975 this will have arisen to 215,400 persons, or 9.46 per cent of the total.

And, remember, all this is based on the expected minimum total population of 2,278,000. It could be 3,000,000 with proportionate increases in all categories.

Another feature of the school-age population is that the 1975 figure will be 27 per cent of the total population compared to the present 23.5 per cent. In other words education will require even more of the tax dollar than it now requires.

If the period was 50 years or 100 years, it might be considered a mere guess. And people living in B.C. at the present time wouldn't be greatly concerned about it.

* * *

But 20 years is a relatively short time.

The year 1935 doesn't seem very long ago, does it? A lot has happened in the last 20 years, but does it really seem like two decades? And the population rose 500,000 in that period. The growth and expansion, particularly in the past 10 years, has seemed phenomenal, especially as it affected education and municipal services. Imagine what will happen in the next 20 years when the population will grow by at least 1,000,000 and possibly 1,500,000.

And one of the problems of growth which affects governments, particularly municipal governments, is that the population growth always precedes the growth of services. It is not until things start getting crowded that expansion takes place.

People move into a city. They build houses. Then they need roads and sewers. They crowd into existing apartments. When they start to overflow, new ones are built. Their children jam into schools and go onto a shift system, then new schools are built.

* * *

While statisticians can't be infallible their predictions can at least benefit government planners. Looking ahead to the needs of people in B.C., municipal and provincial officials have got the nearest thing to a crystal ball they'll ever get. They dare not ignore what they see for the future.

Letters to the Editor

Unite and Advance

Many of us who are more recent residents to Victoria hold some pertinent views relative to our municipal setup.

Municipal business within each unit, and between various units is developing too much into squabbles, dissensions and time spent on trifling matters.

In this period of great Canadian progress we must broaden our vision, quit the piecemeal system and set out to organize one great Victoria, as other cities have done.

Victoria is now bursting at the seams, so that the city centre is flowing out into the peninsula.

Let us suggest advantages to be derived from such a unified Victoria. The several small sewage and water systems no longer suffice. They would be unified and planned for future demands. The new highway arteries would be planned, beautiful and practical.

The imaginary boundary lines which now seem to separate the people would disappear, so that the new subdivisions and shopping centres would fill in and start out with all the utilities of a large city.

Our ability to co-operate with the Dominion and provincial governments for a larger scheme of public works and services would be better realized. A united effort to give Victoria an outer harbor as well as an inner could result in cheaper, faster, shorter, non-luxury service to the mainland. This is also true in the case of electric service, and a project for natural gas.

Victoria could then easily become an educational centre; with more university credits offered at home and a teacher training college to fit into the university scheme.

The large sums now being invested in industries related to forest products could be kept in mind in relation to Victoria. The tourist advertising scheme would be renewed, enlarged, emphasizing the advantages of the ever-expanding Victoria.

The problems and duplications arising out of the many municipal councils would disappear; expert, experienced manages could be appointed in the larger field of utilities; this would leave the one council free to pursue its routine duties of administration. The benefits are too obvious to necessitate further elaboration.

I believe that taxpayers are less interested in reducing taxes than they are in being sure that they are receiving valu relative to expenditure. Now is the time to forget past traditions, past interests and past differences. With this new program even our minor park problems would disappear.

Cease the negative approach of trying to prove our opponent wrong; adopt the positive approach, a positive plan and go ahead.

Victims of Inflation

Inflation is not general prosperity but a condition which permits labor and capital together to exploit the community to their advantage and the detriment of others.

I have seen two booms in western Canada before this one: the first one when the CPR was built; the second during and after the First World War. Both ended in financial disaster.

The first war was followed by 10 years of boom. Wages, prices, dividends, stocks and bonds went up and up, year after year, as they are going now. In 1929 a number of investors on Wall street put their securities on the market in large quantity, with the result that prices crashed and our business went with it.

In a short time thousands of people and business firms in Canada and the U.S.A. were financially ruined. We had the "hungry thirties," poverty and want, soup kitchens, labor camps. Unless some check can be found to further inflation this can happen again.

I am not opposed to labor unions. Working men and women in Canada are more prosperous today than they have ever been, principally as the result of collective bargaining. But a principle can be carried too far, especially when backed by the club of paralyzing industry.

Increased labor costs are not the only cause of too-high prices. All labor disputes and strikes are invariably settled the same. The principal part of the demand is agreed to. The employer adds the cost to the price of goods. The public, including union workers, pay the bill in increased prices.

The value of an article is what you can get for it. This applies to money as to other things. A scale of prices that cuts in half, as at present, every Dominion government annuity, maturity life policy, savings bank account, veterans' and all other pensions is out of line with the general economy, and if some check is not made to further inflation it will cause serious difficulties.

Labor unions have the power to price themselves out of employment. History repeats itself.

Passion Play Delayed To Accommodate Pupils

Performance of the Black Hills Passion Play in Victoria memorial arena on the afternoon of Dec. 9 will begin at 2.30 p.m., half an hour later than originally planned, arena manager J. A. Dukowski said yesterday.

Change was made, he said, "at the request of principals and headmasters of Greater Victoria schools who have tickets for sale for the student matinee."

In addition, "hundreds of public school parents have expressed a desire to have their children attend the special showing," Mr. Dukowski said.

Starting the 2½-hour production at the later time, he said, will mean loss of "a minimum of school time, in most instances not over an hour or an hour and a half."

Bush Pilot Logs 1,000,000th Mile

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—Henry (Hank) Parsons, 45-year-old bush pilot, logged his 1,000,000th flying mile recently and there's still no stopping him.

The veteran of 27 years earned his pilot's licence in 1929 after 11 hours and 55 minutes of dual instruction at a government-subsidized flying club in Fort William.

The following year he qualified for a commercial licence. Today, after several discouraging ventures Hank is a successful airline operator, flying a Stinson Reliant, Cessna 195 and Cessna 170 out of his Flin Flon base.

SERVE BIG AREA

He and his pilots, Harvey Evans and Bert Warring, cover an area 250 miles north, 400 miles northwest and 350 miles northeast of Flin Flon carrying cargoes of fish, mining supplies and passengers to isolated settlements in northern Manitoba.

The bush pilot is the only real link with the outside world to the prospector and trapper.

"It's knowing how much you mean to all these people that makes bush flying interesting," says Hank.

His office desk is stacked with letters for men in isolated) prospecting and drilling camps.

"Some of them haven't been out for weeks. Some day when I'm flying over or near their camps I'll drop down to deliver the mail. You should see the looks on their faces. When that happens it alone makes the favor a pleasure.

MERCY FLIGHTS TOO

Hank's business is thriving. Recently he carried out six mercy flights in one week. If the distress call involves a treaty Indian then the cost is absorbed by the federal government.

However, many times the patient is a white man who is unable to foot the bill but Hank doesn't press for payment; this is a service the bush pilot willingly performs.

'Needle and Pin'—Gin

Cockneys Mucking Abaht Wiv 'Er Majesty's English

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—"Let's get the wind out of our mince pies and go across the frog and toad to the old rub-a-dub for a needle and pin," the man said. "We've got the bird line, you know."

In the Queen's English the Cockney meant:

"Let's get the wind out of our eyes and go across the road to the bar for a gin. We have the time, you know."

This is rhyming slang and it takes a real Cockney to speak it.

A Cockney is a person born within sound of the bells of old St. Mary-le - Bow church, near the heart of this capital. Ruged individualists and generally good humored, the Cockneys started meddling with the English language as far back as the first part of the 19th century.

VILLING TO WOTE

The Cockney characterized himself in the first part of the 19th century by substituting v for w and vice versa: "Are you villing to wote?"

Later in the century the Cockneys changed the th sound to f, as in Arfur for Arthur.

Their greatest assault on the English language concerns vowel sounds. They say dyly for daily, abaht for about and moch for much.

Then came rhyming slang—or substituting one, two or three words that vaguely rhyme with the real word and stringing them all together in a sentence.

There are pubs where a large portion of the drinks are asked for in rhyming slang—and pity the bar maid who doesn't understand.

Beer is a pig's ear . . . whisky is a bright and frisky and rum a deaf and dumb.

Most of the rhyming slang is done with nouns and it is nearly always spoken and not written. And sometimes eyes become just mince (rather than mince pies). Stand-to-attention, the full rhyme for pension, becomes stand - to.

Greengages, the rhyme for wages, may become just greens.

Here's a short vocabulary: Mouth—north and south; nose—I suppose; face — deuce and ace; stairs—apples and pears;

Shirt—dickey dirt; shoes—fires and flues; trousers — round the houses; wife—trouble and strife; husband, old man—pot and pan; spoon—silvery moon; waiter—potato; head waiter—hot potato; tea —rosey lee; dog — sherry hog; money—bees and honey; cash—oak and ash.

Colwood-Luxton RCMP Sweep Nets Five Liquor Convictions

Five persons were convicted on liquor charges yesterday in Colwood court following an RCMP check in the Colwood-Luxton area.

Anthony E. Lisle, 18, 1158 Metchosin, was fined $50 and $3.50 costs for being a minor in possession of liquor. Unable to pay the penalty immediately as required by law, he began a 10-day jail term.

Offence occurred near Colwood hall.

Walter J. Polkosnik, 41 Dunford, and Allen S. Robertson, 42 Dunford, found consuming liquor in public near Luxton hall last Saturday, were fined $50 each and $1 costs.

James V. Pearson, 24 Helmeken, and Patrick R. Thompson, 1162 Old Esquimalt road, were fined $50 each for being minors in possession of liquor. Police said they were found near Luxton hall last Saturday.

In the same court, Leonard E. Smith, 516 Springfield, was fined a total of $35 on charges of being a minor without car insurance and using a learner's licence while not accompanied by an adult licensee.

Speeding charges cost Alexander P. Lezetc and Howard A. Rand, 455 Rainbow, $10 each. James Gillespie, 3821 Epsom, was fined $10 for driving without a tail light.

A Langford juvenile was fined $15 for failing to obey a stop sign.

Prison Break Blame Laid on One Guard

Investigation into the recent escape of four prisoners from Oakalla prison has shown the blame can be laid squarely upon one guard, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Friday.

"The . . . escape was considered entirely attributable to the unexpected reaction of an unnamed guard to threats of the prisoners," said the attorney-general. "The guard is no longer in the gaol service."

Mr. Bonner said the findings of the investigation indicated a general satisfaction with respect to practices at the prison.

Three minor improvements regarding security arrangements had been recommended, he said, and two had been implemented.

Attorney-General Bonner did not elaborate, except to say the final measure is in course of completion. It is understood additional watch towers are being constructed.

The investigation was launched by departmental officials into the "custody technique" and circumstances of the breakout.

Six Months Experiment Proposed

Landfill Garbage Disposal Method To Be Outlined to Topaz Residents

City council's public works committee plans to hold public meetings in the Topaz area to explain to residents a new plan to try out the sanitary landfill method of garbage disposal for a year at the west end of Topaz park.

The committee recommended the landfill experiment yesterday and decided to ask council for authority to call the meetings.

The committee recommended this program submitted by the acting city engineer:

1. Beginning in six months, carry out an experimental sanitary landfill at Topaz park for one year, meanwhile preparing plans for a future garbage wharf at Garbally yard.

2. If the landfill proves acceptable in all respects, negotiate for further landfill operations in the Topaz brickyard.

If this or other landfill operations prove to be possible, an economy of at least $5,631 a year over present costs would be available for 10 years of landfill operations as a substantial contribution toward the cost of a permanent garbage wharf.

3 If it is not found feasible to continue sanitary landfill after the first year, the city should be aware of the situation after the first six months and could undertake construction of the new Garbally yard wharf.

The acting city engineer, James Garnett, reported that the city's present garbage wharf not only required temporary repairs worth $43,200, but was a health and fire menace.

ALL MEANS STUDIED

All possible means of garbage disposal had been studied, he said, and only three would be satisfactory in the Victoria area —incineration, sanitary landfill or disposal at sea. Incineration would cost $36,769 a year more than the present system.

Ald. Austin Curtis, recalling that blocked a previous landfill plan at the Baker brickyards property, said he thought the public did not really understand the true nature of a sanitary landfill.

"The operation consists essentially of dumping garbage and covering it with earth to reclaim useless land."

Health authorities, Ald. Curtis said, recommended this method of disposal.

MUCH RESEARCH

Ald. Arthur Dowell, chairman of the committee, said he had done much research into sanitary landfill, and had personally inspected landfill operations in a number of cities and talked to the city engineers.

"There is not question of a doubt, they are sold on the idea 100 per cent," he said.

Ald. Dowell said the fullest information would be provided for the public at the meetings.

Steel-Starved B.C. Offered Chilean Plates

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A severe delay in British Columbia's steel-starved industrial development may be averted by the importation of steel plates from Chile.

Primary steps to open this new source of supply were taken in Vancouver and Victoria yesterday when a representative of Companie del Pacifico of Concepcion, Chile offered steel shipments to leading B.C. steel users.

Manuel Agosin, vice-president in charge of sales, said the Chile company could supply up to $3,000,000 worth of steel plates a year to British Columbia users.

"We would sell at competitive prices," he said.

Delivery would be a simple matter as the Chilean North Pacific Line operates a regular service between South and North American ports.

On his visit to Victoria, Mr. Agosin met officials of the two Victoria shipyards, Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrows Ltd.

Both of these firms are running short on steel supplies and feel that the Canadian and U.S. sources are not going to be sufficient to keep them going.

"We are working on a quota principle based on last year's figures, but this, even if we get it in full, is inadequate," said T. A. Kennedy, sales manager of YMD.

DEMAND GREAT

"The demand for steel in the east is so great that western Canada does not expect any deliveries from that source in the first quarter of 1956," he added.

"There is a grave shortage of steel plates on this coast," said William Yardley, purchasing agent for Yarrows. "Our quotas don't allow for our natural expansion, and we would welcome any new competitive source of supply."

In Vancouver, the situation is even more grave. One firm estimates that for the pulp and paper industry alone 18,000 tons of steel is required, and much of it is not in sight.

Mr. Agosin, making his first visit to British Columbia, said that his firm would probably be able to ship 10,000 tons during the next year.

The output of the del Pacifico company is 400,000 tons of steel ingots a year. Most of the raw material is available in Chile.

Virus Kills Moth Grubs

LONDON (Reuters) — Wool authorities Friday announced the discovery of a disease which kills clothes moths.

The virus, produced by Cambridge scientists, can be sprayed or dusted into clothing, carpets and other woollen material. It kills the grub but not the adult moth.

"So far industry has made no use of the discovery," Dr. Kenneth Smith said. "It is available if required, but manufacturers seem to prefer chemical means of dealing with moths.

B.C. Engineers In Short Supply

An acute shortage of trained engineers in B.C. and other parts of the continent, is causing considerable concern, says Dr. H. C. Gunning president of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C.

"We estimate there is about a 50 per cent shortage at present," said Dr. Gunning, who is also dean of the faculty of applied science at UBC.

At the same time he said B.C. was on a par with any other province as far as a bright future for engineers was concerned.

Dr. Gunning was in Victoria yesterday for the annual convention of the association at the Empress hotel.

He estimated some 1,500 new engineers would graduate this year but said there was a need for about 2,500.

"The situation is becoming increasingly difficult," added Dr. R. E. Heartz, an engineer from Montreal and president of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Dr. Gunning said he did not believe the shortage could be attributed to low salaries.

At the same time, association vice-president J. E. Liersch, vice-president of the Powell River Company, said the shortage was so bad industry was attempting to lure university staff into private jobs.

"Universities must be prepared to pay better salaries to keep their staff," said Mr. Leirsch. "At present they are getting tremendous competition from industry."

Sweeping Study Authorized Of Canadian Radio and TV

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-man royal commission was appointed Friday to make a sweeping study of the whole field of Canadian television and radio broadcasting.

The federal government empowered the commission to study and make recommendations on the licensing and control of private radio and television broadcasting, the financial and broadcasting policies of the publicly-owned CBC, and any other subject the commission may decide.

Announcing the appointment of the commission, Prime Minister St. Laurent said it will be headed by R. M. Fowler, 48, of Montreal, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

The other members are Edmond Turcotte, Canadian ambassador to Colombia, expected back from Bogota later this month, and James Stewart of Toronto, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

A spokesman for the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, which represents owners of 136 radio and 25 television stations, said his group is happy with the commission's terms of reference.

T. J. Allard, executive vice-president of CARTB, said:

"We are gratified that the terms of reference are sufficiently large to permit full-scale investigation into and report upon the structure of broadcasting in Canada."

For years CARTB has urged the government to appoint a separate regulatory body to regulate broadcasting in Canada. The CBC now regulates broadcasting while also functioning as a broadcaster.

Private broadcasting licences are issued by the government through the transport department after recommendations by the CBC board of governors, which hears applications.

One of the big questions referred to the commission is the financing of the CBC, which received about 80 per cent of its revenue from the public treasury in the fiscal year 1954-55.

The corporation's income was almost $35,000,000 last year but included a $6,250,000 statutory grant for radio and about $21,500,000 in tax allocations.

This allocation was a 15-per-cent excise tax on radio and television sets and parts.

The government set down these principles in the order-in-council setting up the commission:

1. Parliament shall retain its control of allocating frequencies and channels.

2. Distribution of Canadian programs must continue through a public body such as the CBC.

Karsh Task 'Very Secret'

OTTAWA (BUP) — World-famed photographer Yousef Karsh has been summoned to England on a mysterious "special assignment."

He will leave Ottawa by air this morning.

His secretary said yesterday that the special job for which he had been summoned to England was "very secret" and not even his closest friends knew the nature of it.

Friends said it was possible that Karsh had been called to take a royal command photograph.

Hamilton of Vancouver, B.C. conference president, during ordination ceremonies at Metropolitan United church Thursday night. Among witnesses were Rev. F. G. Patterson of North Vancouver, conference secretary, and Rev. Dr. F. E. H. James of Metropolitan church.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

Celebrations Begin For Christmas

Celebrations marking the Christmas season begin in city churches during the coming week. Sunday school parties and a choral concert are closely followed by an interesting pageant centred on the Nativity.

Christmas party for the cradle roll and nursery of First United church will be held at 2.30 p.m. Wednesday. Gathering for beginners will be held at the same time Friday, and both children's parties are in the fellowship hall.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC

A concert of Christmas music will be presented by Emmanuel Baptist church choir in the church auditorium at 8.15 p.m. Friday. Director is Mrs. Alma Wittick and soloists are baritone Stanley Martin and pianists Margery Vaughan and Henry Pluym.

At Metropolitan United church, Mrs. Harold Larsen will direct a three-part pageant during White Gift service on the morning of Dec. 11. Organist Charles Palmer will lead the church choir of Explorers and Tyros.

PAGEANT BEGINS

Isabel Kimball Whiting's pageant begins with the prophetic tradition of Amos, Hosea and Isaiah, presents the Nativity and concludes with a visit by French villagers to Bethlehem in the 15th century.

Cast of young people includes Don Fouracre, Terry Logan, John Gilliland, Dorothy Hutton, Bob and Frank Grivel, Bob Jones, Ken James, Roger Searson, Dick Kirk, Linda McNeely, Linda Johns, Janet Larsen, Jean Bailey, Mona and Norma Wolfe, Ann Paul, Carol Harris, Donald Webb and Brian Huddleston.

Watch Service To Feature Church Party

Most unusual New Year's Eve party will be held in Esquimalt United church for the second consecutive year, Rev. Douglas Pilkey announced yesterday.

Program will begin at 9 p.m. with dancing to recorded music, but dancing will conclude shortly before midnight to make way for a watch night service and at 12.30 a.m., a turkey dinner.

Variety games and a singsong will occupy the remainder of the party, which concludes at 2 p.m. Church space was filled to its capacity of 127 persons last year. Anyone is welcome but Esquimalt United members get first choice.

Message from the Minister

We Are Denying Children Access to Religion

Stresses Spiritual Care

REV. J. S. P. SNOWDEN

Another in a series of articles by Greater Victoria clergymen appearing weekly on The Daily Colonist church page.

REV. J. S. P. SNOWDEN
Assistant rector, Carnarvon Church Hall

Adults were never more conscious of children or their needs than we are today. Unlimited are our efforts for their physical and mental well-being.

There are clinics, nurseries, kindergartens, truant and probation officers and a hundred ministries of anxious care to guard or rescue the healthy, retarded or delinquent child. All this is good and there must be no going back.

Yet in spite of all our worthwhile strivings for the welfare of our children, there is one thing we are leaving undone.

We are denying them a religious atmosphere, that context which will organize their character, discipline and inspire their spirit, regulate their adjustments and valuations as they go through life.

We are, to put it bluntly, raising them in the climate of secularism and tearing them away from God, without whom they cannot live wisely or well.

Working together, the church and the home must provide children with this essential upbringing. Parents must not assume they can leave the responsibility entirely in the hands of the parsons and Sunday school teachers. They have an indispensable role.

Children are under the influence of the home all the time. If they are to be finely shaped and served, well-trained for heaven and for earth, parents, must see to it that a religious atmosphere pervades the life of the family.

Let me suggest some ways for creating a religious environment in the home. For some these may be superfluous, but in many families they need to be restored.

It can be achieved through family prayers and Bible reading, grace before meals, religious instruction and the whole family going to church.

"Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it."

Your child and mine are our trust from God. One day we will have to give an account to Him of our stewardship. Pray God that we may hear the blessed words: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Cross of St. George Marks Church Flag

Final details of the new flag of the Anglican Church of Canada have been announced from the information department in Toronto.

The flag will be six feet long and three feet wide—twice as long as its width as the staff side of the head. The design is a cross of St. George in red on a field of white, the width of the cross being one-fifth of the width of the flag.

In the centre of each quarter is a green maple leaf, seven and one-quarter inches from the tip to the middle of the leaf base. Leaves are of heraldic design, the same shape as on the coat of arms of the province of Ontario.

If it is desired that the diocesan arms be shown, they are to be displayed on an escutcheon superimposed at the crossing and not placed in any quarter.

To Meet Monday

LANGFORD—Regular meeting of Prince Edward branch of the Canadian Legion will be held Monday in the Legion hall, Dunford road, Langford. Election of officers will follow.

Members of the Masonic Order, Sidney Lodge No. 143 and Mount Newton Lodge No. 89, with their families, will attend evening service in St. Paul's United Church, Sidney. Sunday school attendance awards will be presented in the morning.

Tanker World's Biggest

BARROW, England (UP)—The world's largest oil tanker was launched here Friday. The Ss. Spyros Niarchos, which slid from its berth and splashed into this Irish sea harbor is just 115 feet shorter than the Houses of Parliament.

When completed she will carry enough crude oil to provide gasoline for a small automobile on a round trip to the sun, with half the cargo bulk left over for petroleum by-products.

It took Vickers-Armstrong shipbuilders a year and a half to put her 757-foot hull together.

Her owner, millionaire Greek shipper Stavros S. Niarchos, is already making plans for the launching of her sister ship early next year. The hull for the second big tanker is under construction in an adjoining berth at Barrow.

The 47,750-ton Spyros Niarchos will transport crude oil under contract to Shell Oil, running from Persian gulf to United Kingdom ports.

Her 33 tanks will hold 14,000,000 gallons, and her 20,000 horsepower can drive her at 17 knots, loaded.

Dairy Barn Inspectors Temporary

The nine additional dairy barn inspectors to be hired by the provincial government as a result of "shocking conditions" reported on some farms, mentioned in the Clyne milk inquiry findings, will be reduced to five within six months.

Appointment of the inspectors has been approved by the provincial cabinet.

It was stated the additional men would "eliminate the backlog of inspectional work" in B.C. within six months when the number of inspectors required would be five—four in the Fraser valley and one on Vancouver Island.

Officials estimated that one inspector could visit 800 farms twice a year. There are about 4,200 dairy farms which must be inspected.

The five permanent inspectors will be chosen from the nine appointees to be named shortly.

New Dockyard Chief Promoted Captain

Promotion to acting captain of Cmdr. (L) Stuart Edmund Paddon, 38, of St. Thomas, Ont., was announced yesterday by the navy. On Dec. 27 he will assume Capt. John MacGillivray's present duties as deputy superintendent and co-ordinator of refit and repair, Pacific coast, and deputy superintendent of HMC Dockyard at Esquimalt.

FAMILY AFFAIR: Royal Canadian Naval Anglers Association will wind up its first season and start its second next Wednesday night at HMCS Naden theatre. Prizes and trophies won during the past season will be presented and officers elected for next season. Meeting starts at 8.15.

This year, the six monthly competitions were dominated by the James boys, Jack [illegible] August, second prize in September and October while Dick James won first prize in June, second prize in July and August, fourth prize in October and also the October hidden-weight prize. And Mrs. Dick James won the ladies' prize in July and August.

First monthly prize was a $15 scrip, second prize was worth $10, third prize $8, fourth prize $7 and ladies' and hidden-weight prizes $5 each monthly.

Other first prizes were won by V. Holman in September and H. Driemel in October. A. Bennett and L. Ebbling, in May and June, respectively, were other second-prize winners. B. Colegrave, C. Payone, R. Baldwin, R. Brayton, H. Vondette and B. Gillespie won third prizes in the monthly competitions and J. Hughes, J. Ireland, W. Bell, D. Thomas and Gillespie won fourth prizes. Mrs. Doolittle and Mrs. Coburn were other ladies' winners and hidden-weight prizes were won by Gillespie, W. Brown, Vondette, G. Jones and C. Keen.

Five trophies will be presented Wednesday night, including The Daily Colonist Perpetual Trophy for the largest spring salmon caught by a member of the RCNAA during the competition period. The Gordon's Sporting Goods Trophy will go to the lady member who caught the largest salmon, the Bapco Trophy will go to the member who caught the most salmon weighing more than 10 pounds, the Dowell's Cartage Trophy will go to the member who caught the largest coho salmon, and the Murdoch & Girard Trophy is for the largest salmon caught by a junior member.

FIRST STEELHEAD: Steelheaders are getting their gear in shape with the first steelhead long since pulled out of Island rivers. Biggest reported to date was a 19½-pounder taken from the Sandy pool in the Campbell river last week by Arnold Storeback. J. Corsa netted a 16-pounder and A Sambrook caught two smaller from the same pool while Ross Spiers took a 13½-pounder from the Quinsam river. Golf tee lures were used in most instances.

Guide Art Hancock reports that the first winter steelhead are in the Cowichan river, which has cleared considerably during the past few days and which is now almost ideal for fishing.

Hancock also reports that this was one of the best years for some time for trout fishing in the Cowichan. During the two weeks previous to the end of the season (last Wednesday) for river trout fishing, most anglers had limit or near-limit catches. Quite a number of trout were close to the four-pound class and a Vancouver angler, T. Downey, pulled one out which weighed six and a half pounds dressed. It was caught on a Sandys Wunch orange fly.

At the moment, fishing is fair in Cowichan lake, particularly off the mouths of Sutton creek and Robertson river. Anglers are enjoying success with sunken flies and trolling with spinner and worm. Hancock also reports that quite a number of coho, as well as large numbers of dog salmon, are still coming up to spawning grounds.

WORTH TRYING: With the weather not at all good for fishing and Christmas getting uncomfortably close, not many anglers have been out for the past few weeks but for anyone who might want to get away from it all with a spot of fishing, Saanich inlet offers some good sport.

Hall's Boathouse reports that there are good numbers of bluebacks up to two and a half pounds and a good chance of hooking into a winter spring. Tom Mack spoons, fished with up to four ounces of weight, are recommended for blues and grilse while springs are being taken deeper.

John Hildreth boated a 17½-pounder using a Tom Mack spoon with a pound of weight. A. C. Anderson and partner used Hookum spoons in making a catch of two springs, weighing 10 and eight pounds, and seven grilse and, on another trip, eight springs up to eight pounds. Bill Lewis and D. B. Harrison have recently boated 10-pound springs and Lewis, who has been scoring consistently, shared in another catch of four springs and three grilse.

Others who have been successful lately in the area between Hall's and the Stone House include Bob Bugg and Stan Mawdsley, 14 grilse on Tom Mack spoons and two ounces of weight; J. Cameron and party, six and a half-pound spring and three grilse on Tom Mack spoon and three ounces; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rollin, limit of 20 blues and grilse; Mr. and Mrs. L. Dionne, three springs and three grilse; Pat McLean and partner, two springs and nine grilse; Stan Wiseman and father, eight-pound spring and seven blues; Bill Packford and G. Brown, limit of 20 grilse and blues; Mrs. C. Bell and partner, seven springs and a jackspring.

Totems Hand Tutors 65-46 Hoop Lesson

Victoria High Totems, unleashing a 23-point assault in the opening quarter, played the Victoria Pedagogs on even terms the rest of the way in coasting to a 65-46 triumph in an exhibition basketball game at the Fernwood gym last night.

Opening with a rush and outscoring their opponents by 16 points in the first frame, the Totems had little trouble in turning back the challenge of Pedagogs, a team composed of Greater Victoria school teachers.

Individual scorers follow:

Pedagogs—Andrews 14, Smith, Naylor 7, Anderson 5, Garner 11, McConechy 10, Pimlott 2, Oakley 1. Total 46.

Western All-Stars Plot Strategy

Coach Al Sherman of Winnipeg, assisting Edmonton coach Pop Ivy in piloting the western all-stars, plots some of the strategy he hopes will work against the eastern stars in the first annual Shrine benefit grid game at Toronto today. Thirteen members of the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos are included in the western lineup and the favored eastern team will be out to avenge Montreal's humiliating defeat in the Grey Cup final. Shown above, left to right, back row: Ron Atchison, Stan Williams, Martin Ruby of Saskatchewan; Dick Huffman of Winnipeg; Mel Beckett and Gord Sturtridge, Saskatchewan; Norm Fieldgate, B.C. Lions, and Buddy Tinsley and Gordie Rowland of Winnipeg. Front row: Sherman, Willie Roberts, Calgary; Bob Marlowe and Ken Carpenter, Saskatchewan, and Lynn Bottoms of Calgary.

Mayoralty Candidate Backs Free Use of Enclosed Parks

By IAN GLENDAY

Pressure by Victoria sports officials for a different system of administering parks in the Victoria area increased yesterday as five soccer representatives met with the public works committee to discuss the removal of park rental fees.

Following a leter to the editor in Friday morning's edition of the Colonist urging an investigation into the use of city parks, the group of soccer officials discussed the present situation with public works committee chairman Ald. Arthur Dowell and met with some success.

While the first steps in obtaining rent-free use of parks were being taken by city sportsmen, majoralty candidate Percy Scurrah threw in his support by advocating the dropping of rental fees on all city parks.

"MONEY WELL SPENT"

Scurrah said yesterday "it will be money well spent if we can get the youngsters off the street corners and put them on the playing fields."

"The parks are for the people. Let them use the parks," he said.

Scurrah also brought up the matter of letting the Edmonton Eskimos train in Victoria for the Grey Cup by using Royal Athletic park free of charge for four days.

"If we can dot it for a professional team, why can't we do it for our own boys. We were certainly glad to see the Eskimos in Victoria. It was good publicity. But they did do damage to the turf.

"We are spending $200,000 a year on parks administration, so it doesn't matter if we spend $1,000 a year to repair the damage done to the turf."

SOCCER GROUP

Heading the soccer group that met with Alderman Dowell was Island commissioner Pat Mulcahy. Also attending were president and secretary of the Strathcona soccer club, Harry Youson, president of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association, and George Kaiser, president of the soccer school for youngsters 12 years of age and under.

Mulcahy said last night that more than 1,000 youths play on city and district parks and that they were pressing for rent-free enclosed parks, particularly in the case of Royal Athletic park.

"In view of Edmonton's case last week, we thought the committee would be sympathetic to us. However, we weren't protesting the action of the committee in letting Edmonton use the park free of charge."

Alderman Dowell promised a full investigation into the matter and instructed parks administrator W. H. Warren to bring in a report outlining the present situation, including parks revenue and rental fees.

"I am certainly sympathetic to the request of the city sportsmen," Alderman Dowell said. "I will insist we will get a full report and I will assure sports officials full co-operation."

Warren said yesterday he would not comment on the present parks situation.

However, he did say that the "public is generally not aware of the fact that revenue from the parks is almost negligible."

And, he added, "there isn't another enclosed park in Canada in which the teams get as low a rental rate as at Athletic park."

Cuba's Newest Hope Thumps Virgil Atkins

Isaac "Kid" Logart, Cuba's latest hope for the welterweight championship, avenged his only loss of the year by outspeeding sluggish Virgil Akins of St. Louis for a unanimous 10-round decision at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Although Akins was higher ranked in the welterweight division and scored a split decision over the 22-year-old Cuban four months ago, Logart entered the ring a 2-to-1 favorite.

The slow-moving Akins was no match for Logart this time as the Cuban repeatedly beat his opponent to the punch and had him in trouble several times.

Defeat snapped the broad-shouldered Akins' unbeaten streak at nine fights. He was rated the No. 3 contender while Logart was ranked sixth.

SIGNS NEW CONTRACT—Doug (Peahead) Walker signed a three-year contract to coach Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union, it was announced by club officials Friday night. Walker still had a year to go on a two-year contract . . . A group of Hamilton businessmen will take over the administration of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and operate the Big Four club

Anyone interested in the under-21 league is invited to attend.

Changes Still Needed Although Cougars Win

By JIM TANG

Victoria Cougars didn't snap their slump at Memorial Arena last night but they did snap a winless streak at five games by dropping Vancouver Canucks, 4-2, in a Western Hockey League game played before about 2,000 fans.

Cougars weren't much better than they have been in the slump which saw them drop out of the Western Division lead when they managed only three points from eight games. However, the Canucks didn't look the part of division leaders and one forward line was enough to make the difference.

The forward line was the Victoria combination of Doug Anderson, Colin Kilburn and Doug Macauley. This threesome accounted for all four Victoria goals, Kilburn getting his 15th and 16th and Anderson his ninth and tenth.

Anderson also had two assists, Kilburn helped out on one goal and Macauley assisted twice. In 23 games, the Cougars' first-string line has 37 goals and 41 assists for 78 points.

TAKE SECOND

Victory moved the Cougars into second place, two points ahead of New Westminster and three points ahead of the trailing Seattle Americans. Canucks, who have played two extra games, lead the Cougars by five points.

Just how the Canucks managed to get a seven-point lead was not readily discernible last night. They missed steady Hugh Currie behind the blue line and showed none of the drive which has been their big asset.

TOUGH TRIP AHEAD

As for the Cougars, outside of the opportunism of their first line, they didn't do much to raise hopes they may snap out of it on the tough Prairie trip which begins Monday in Winnepeg.

Coach Eddie Olson again switched his players about on his other two lines but the result was the same. He couldn't find three who could click together. Passing was bad, often haphazard, and the Cougars appeared too tight, perhaps under pressure of reported changes. It could be that the six-game road trip which will take them away from disgruntled fans until Dec. 13 is just what they need.

STILL PLANNED

Changes, however, are still planned although there was nothing to report yesterday except a switche between Boston Bruins and Hershey Bears, their AHL farm club.

Bruins sent forwards Orval Tessier, oLne Davis and Eddie Panagabko to the Bears and took Lionel Henrich, 20-year-old defenceman, and Allan Nicholson, 19-year-old forward, from Hershey.

Americans' Streak Ended at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — Seattle Americans snapped their three-game losing streak on the road Friday night as they edged Winnipeg Warriors, 2-1, in overtime in a Western Hockey League game before 4,369 fans, second largest crowd to see a game in Winnipeg Arena.

Bart Bradley scored the winning goal at 1:09 of the extra period while Winnipeg was a man short. The game's other two goals also came while Warriors were shorthanded in the first period. Ed Mazur counted the Winnipeg marker and 22 seconds later Ed Dorohoy tied it up for Seattle.

CHANGE OF FORM

Seattle showed none of the form that brought them lop sided defeats earlier in Calgary, Edmonton and Saskatoon. They outskated and outplayed Warriors through most of the game.

Bradley's sudden-death winner came as he backhanded a short shot into the corner of the net on a relay from Jack Bownass and Guyle Fielder. Seattle had the man advantage then as Winnipeg's Mickey Keating still had a minute and 36 seconds left of his penalty.

Flyers Move Up On Overtime Win

EDMONTON (CP) — Norm Corcoran fired the winning goal in overtime Friday night to give Edmonton Flyers a 7-6 win over Saskatoon Quakers in a Western Hockey League game before 2,700 fans.

Flyers took over sole possession of second place in the Prairie division by virtue of their win, leaving Quakers five points behind third-place Winnipeg Warriors.

Corcoran's goal at 5:28 of the overtime period was his second of the night. Bill Dea also scored two for the Flyers, and their other tallies came from Hugh Coffin, Ed Stankiewicz and John McCormack.

Dave Gordichuk scored twice for Saskatoon, and the other Quaker marksmen were Les Colwill, Earl Ingarfield, Len Haley and Jack McLeod.

Corcoran broke in on Francis in the overtime and scored with a 15-foot shot.

CHICAGO (CP) — First-period goals by Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice gave New York Rangers a 2-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks Friday night, and a sweep of a home-and-home midweek National Hockey League series.

The second-place Rangers, who trounced the Black Hawks 6-1 at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night, picked up another two points Friday night for a total of 29, four behind the league-leading Montreal Canadiens. Despite their double loss, the Black Hawks remained in third place with 22 points.

Bathgate scored New York's leadoff goal midway through the first period as Chicago's Johnny Wilson was sitting out a boarding penalty. The Winnipeg-born winger also set up Prentice's goal later in the period, giving him a six-point total for the two Chicago games. He had a goal and three assists Wednesday.

Georgia Tech Stunned . . . . . . By New Development

Governor Adds Fuel to Sugar Bowl Volcano

ATLANTA (UP) — Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia demanded yesterday that Georgia Tech cancel its Sugar Bowl game with the University of Pittsburgh to uphold segregation on the football field. Early today Tech students reacted by burning two effigies of the governor at a huge rally.

The Pitt team has a negro fullback, Bobby Grier. The university had announced that Grier would travel, eat, live, practice and play with the team.

There were also reports that Pitt would seat spectators in its section of the Sugar Bowl in the deep south on a non-segregated basis.

Shortly after midnight hundreds of Tech students swarmed to a mass campus rally shouting "Down with Griffin" and "Sugar Bowls."

Their wishes to go to the Sugar Bowl were apparently supported by Georgia Tech's president, Blake Van Leer, who replied to Griffin's action by saying he had never broken a football game contract and did not intend breaking any contract in 1956.

The giant rally was staged after Griffin, long an outspoken exponent of segregation, declared:

"The South stands at armageddon. We cannot make the slightest concession to the enemy in this dark and lamentable hour of struggle."

He called for an immediate special meeting of the board of regents, governing body for units of the university system which includes Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia. He told the board to act on his request that units of the system "not be permitted to engage in contests with other teams where the races are mixed on such teams or where segregation is not required among spectators at such games."

Georgia Tech, one of the best-known engineering schools in the nation, was stunned by Griffin's pronouncement as the football squad prepared for its fifth bowl excursion in as many years. The game is scheduled for Jan. 2 in New Orleans.

Sports editor Danforth of the Atlanta Journal predicted that if Tech has to withdraw because of the segregation crisis both Tech and the University of Georgia will be wrecked athletically. He said they never would be able to schedule an intersectional game or get another bowl bid and would be reduced to "playing neighborhood teams."

NEW YORK (AP)—Maybe you don't realize it when Ruby Goldstein climbs into your television screen to referee a boxing bout but the little man in grey flannels probably is getting a bigger thrill out of the bout than you are.

"Boxing has been in my blood since I was a poor kid on New York's lower east west side and Benny Leonard was my idol," explains Ruby, who is one of the top referees in the business. "When I quit getting a thrill out of refereeing I'll quit."

The quiet, dark-haired Ruby's biggest thrill was officiating in his first world heavyweight bout and it provoked his biggest rhubarb.

"It's sort of like an umpire in his first world series," Goldstein smiles. "So the night I climbed through the ropes to referee the first Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott title bout was my top thrill."

Maybe you'll remember that Walcott, who clouted Louis to the deck, was considered the victim of the greatest hold-up since the great train robbery when he lost the decision in that one. Well, Goldstein voted for Jersey Joe to make it a split decision.

This despite the fact that he and Louis had travelled together on an army exhibition tour of Alaska, the Aleutians and the States.

* * *

"I started to referee in the army," Goldstein recalls. "I had fought some 70-odd professional bouts and one day they needed a referee and I stepped in. I've been in there ever since.

But the fact that I had toured with Louis and that we were friends couldn't mean anything with the title at stake," he adds. "I had to call it the way I saw it. I thought Walcott won."

So did almost everyone else in Madison Square Garden that night except the two judges. [illegible] greatest principles as a referee: top physical condition, [illegible] and exceptional care of his conduct in and out of the ring.

[illegible] three or four games of handball and it keeps me in top shape."

* * *

"Some people say I am ultra cautious because I have disqualified myself from fight [illegible]," he adds. "Well, how would it look if I sat around with managers whose fighters I [illegible]. Maybe I am cautious in the ring, [illegible] to stop a fight one punch too [illegible] one punch too late."

In the 10 years since he has been refereeing, Ruby notes one great change in his business. It's a result of television.

"In the old days we merely told a fighter, in a low voice, to keep his punches up or to warn him about some other infraction," Goldstein smiles. "But the commissions began getting letters asking if we were blind and why fighters weren't warned. So now we have to do a great deal of pantomiming so the viewers will know what we are doing."

It Fits, but Will the Crown?

Manager George Gadsford, left, assures Sugar Ray Robinson that his old middleweight championship belt still fits, although the former champ must conquer present titleholder Bobo Olson next Friday night at Chicago before donning a new one. Robinson earned a shot at the middleweight crown by decisioning Rocky Castellani last July. Friday, Robinson shrugged off rumors that he had any idea of "running out" on the championship bout Friday, and said "I feel right."

Edge in Passing

East Slight Choice For All-Star Clash

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP)—Power-packed teams from the East and Oest meet here today in Canada's first all-star football game and riding on the outcome will be national football supremacy, outranked only by the Grey Cup game.

The all-star clash sends the players picked by the fans as the best in the country against each in a renewal of East-West rivalry that reaches its peak with the Grey Cup. The game provides the East with an opportunity to regain some of its lost prestige after two successive history making victories by Edmonton Eskimos over Montreal Alouettes in the 1954 and 1955 Grey Cup finals.

The eastern all-stars have been established as 6-to-5 favorites or by three points at even money. They have been given the edge on the basis that their passing attack will prevail over the West's ground offensive featuring the split-T offensive that Edmonton used to overwhelm Montreal 34-19 in this year's Grey Cup battle.

ESKS-ALS DOMINATE

The two teams are top-heavy with players from the Alouettes and Eskimos. The western squad, coached by Frank (Pop) Ivy of Edmonton has 11 Eskimo players on it including its first string backfield of quarterback Jackie Parker, fullbacks Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright and halfbacks Earl Lindley and Rollie Miles.

The eastern team, led by coach Doug (Peahead) Walker of Montreal, includes 12 Alouette players headed by rifle-armed Sam Etcheverry and his two ace receivers Red O'Quinn and Hal Patterson.

The odds favor the East despite Edmonton's Grey Cup win and the supremacy of ground power over air power. The strategy is for the East to strike mainly through the air and the West along the ground but the outcome could be different this time. Both coaches have said that in an all-star game the team with the best passing has a definite edge because there is not enough time to prepare a strong ground attack.

WEATHER IS POOR

Hopes for good weather conditions were set back today. The first heavy snow of the season hit Toronto and the weatherman forecast occasional rain or snow for today, dimming prospects for a capacity crowd of 27,000 at Varsity Stadium. The field, however, should be in good shape unless it snows or rains heavily after the 1 p.m. EST (11 a.m. MST) kickoff. The gridiron has been covered with a tarpaulin since early in the week and will not be taken up until shortly before game time.

The game is being played in aid of Canada's crippled children. Net proceeds are to be divided between the Shriners hospitals for crippled children in Winnipeg and Montreal.

More than pride will be at stake in the game. All players received $200 beyond expenses but members of the winning team will get an extra $100. The two head coaches each get $1,000 but the added money for a winning effort gives the teams an extra incentive to emerge on top.

Plays Today

WILLIE HAMILTON

Former English and Scottish Football League performer who has taken over the coaching duties of Victoria [illegible], Willie Hamilton, will see action at an inside forward position today when his club hosts Vancouver Halecos at Royal Athletic park at 2. Strathconas, making their second Coast Soccer League start, will be seeking their first triumph. They dropped a 4-2 decision to North Shore in their opener.

Grand Jury Probes Studio TV Boycott

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—A federal grand jury is investigating boxing in Cleveland because of an alleged boycott of "studio television" bouts by the International Boxing Guild, it was learned Friday.

Federal authorities began their investigation last week after it was charged that lightweight Jesse Rodriguez of Warren, O., was boycotted and prevented from obtaining any further matches because he had participated in a studio-TV bout here last April 2.

A studio-TV bout is one in which two boxers fight in a television studio with no paid audience. The boxers are paid by commercial sponsors and the matches are televised over local stations.

Shortly before Rodriguez was scheduled to participate in the studio-TV match last April his manager, Jack Carpenter, received a telegram from the IBG advising him not to let his boxer go through with the bout.

"Take my advice and protect Rodriguez who has a wife and two kids," the telegram said.

IGNORED WARNING

Rodriguez went through with the fight despite the warning. He was scheduled for a match on the west coast the following month but received notification that the bout had been cancelled. No reason was given for the action.

Shortly after the Rodriguez fight the IBG protested the staging of the weekly studio TV bouts. The sponsor [illegible] withdrew its sponsorship of the program.

The IBG is opposed to studio TV fights because its members believe the boxers cannot make as much money as they might in regular arena fights. The IBG also feels that studio TV bouts eventually will put small [illegible]

Game Club Schedules Turkey Shoot Sunday

[illegible] Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association opens the social competitions with a turkey shoot at its Goldstream grounds Sunday.

There will be almost a ton of turkeys and a flock of penned pheasants waiting to be claimed during the day's shooting, which gets under way at 10 a.m. and will continue until dusk.

ALL HAVE CHANCE

In order that all contestants will be assured of a chance to carry home the main ingredient for a Christmas dinner, shooters will be classified according to known target-hunting ability and will move up a notch after winning a turkey.

Anyway, the scattergunners will have their choice of taking home either a turkey or a brace of pheasants for each event they win.

Shells and refreshments will be available at the clubhouse throughout the day and all shooters, whether expert or novice, are invited to attend.

VF&GPA officials have also announced that the association's first social event of the season will be the annual game dinner, which is scheduled at the Canadian Legion, Britannia Branch on Dec. 10 starting at 7 p.m. Tickets will be available at Sunday's shoot.

Remember When:

Henry Armstrong was awarded the Edward J. Neil memorial trophy 15 years ago today for his contribution to boxing. Hammering Henry was the only fighter in ring history to hold three titles at the same time — featherweight, lightweight and middleweight.

Coast League Soccer Tops Busy Program

If the weatherman co-operates Victoria sports fans will have plenty of entertainment to choose from today with soccer, rugby and grass hockey sharing the spotlight in one of the busiest Saturday schedules of the winter season.

Topping the list will be a Pacific Coast Soccer League match between Victoria Strathconas and Vancouver Halecos at Royal Athletic park at 2 and not 2.30 as previously announced. Strathconas will be making their second league start and will be seeking their first win.

WESTS SEEK LEAD

District league officials have scheduled three games, one in the first division and two in the seven-team second division. Victoria West, trailing first division Heaneys by one point, will have a chance to gain the lead when it meets last-place Esquimalt at Central park.

Canadian Scottish, tied for third place in the second division, tackle Duncan Native Sons at Windsor park while undefeated Tillicums, boasting a three-game winning streak, will clash with Dutch Wanderers in the other second division match at lower Beacon Hill. All games start at 2 p.m.

More than 500 youngsters comprising a total of 24 teams will wind up the Little Soccer League season with a giant field day at Windsor park at 10 this morning while three Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association matches will be played this afternoon.

TOP SPOT AT STAKE

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most activity on the Winnipeg grain exchange appeared in flax with shippers and exporters making purchases.

There were reports that a small parcel lot had been sold to Japan. Prices were irregular.

There were a few shipping orders in rye and prices were firm. Oats and barley trade was domestic with the U.S. buying some barley. Prices moved narrowly.

There were reports of further sales of feed wheat to Belgium and the United Kingdom.

Overnight wheat export loadings included 700,000 bushels to Japan and a small quantity to Rhodesia.

[illegible]

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains had a firm tone on the board of trade even though scattered selling late in the session cut down on early gains.

Firmness in cash grain markets and prospects of good export business, particularly in wheat, supported the market.

Wheat closed one cent lower to ½ higher, Dec. 2.03¾-½, corn ½ to 2 cents higher, Dec. 1.21⅞-¾, oats unchanged to ⅛ lower. Cash wheat: None; corn: new No. 4 yellow 1.15¾; oats: None; barley nominal. Malting choice 1.10-40, feed 80-97.

Wall Street Makes Spurt Near Close

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks met support in the late trading after an irregular decline led by the major groups.

The lesser lights were featured by several strong spots through the session and some of them set new highs for the year and longer.

General motors led in turnover and made a sizeable comeback after showing a decline of a full point. Steels rallied with Bethlehem up more than a point. Du Pont up more than a point featured the chemicals. Magma, up more than 4, led the coppers higher.

Railroad issues came back from their lows, several rail specials were in demand at higher prices. Eastern Air Lines was up a point in its section. Philip Morris rose more than a point in the tobaccos.

Papers Turn Mixed

TORONTO (CP)— End-of-the-week lethargy set in on the stock market Friday as prices declined slightly in ragged, narrow-range trading. Volume of 2,760,000 shares was the lowest in a quiet week.

Refining oils mustered fractional strength. Papers began firmly but turned mixed. Other industrial groups were irregular or lower. Prices movements were very sluggish, extending to 1½ points at the outside. On the upside, Winnipeg and Central Gas at 14 and Southam Co., at 47½, advanced $1.50.

Senior mines fluctuated fractionally. Noranda gained ⅛. Opemiska led the lower juniors, dipping 30 cents to $1.50. Campbell led improved golds, up 20 at $7. Chimo's 14 cents at $1.40 was the best uranium's advance.

Among western oils, Peruvian climbed 45 cents to $3 on what was reported to be New York buying, but there was no additional news to account for the stock's rise. Petrol made a 23-cent advance to $2.08 on 108,000 shares.

Industrials Boom

LONDON (Reuters)—The stock market ended the week on a cheerful note with sentiment continuing to be influenced by news of booming industrial production and a continued flow of good company statements.

However, the credit squeeze still dominated gilts and business was restricted. Prices held steady. Leading industrials continued in demand and many useful gains were established.

B.C. Power Gain Expected

BY HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

B.C. Power Corporation which is about to offer 150,000 new common shares to residents of British Columbia, is expected to earn nearly $1.90 a share in 1955.

In a release yesterday in connection with the new issue it was stated that for the first 10 months of 1955, the estimated B.C. Power earnings were $5,415,122, or $1.59 a share after the new issue is completed.

This compared with earnings of $1.62 a share in the whole of 1954 and 48 cents a share in 1945.

Earlier president Dal Grauer of B.C. Power stated that in 1956 his company intended to spend $75,000,000 in new construction.

This was a new record for the company which had added $290,000,000 worth of electric, gas and transit facilities since 1945. It is also double the amount spent in the 1955 program.

Mr. Grauer believes B.C. is entering a new and broader sphere of growth, and his firm was getting ready "a pace or two ahead of time to serve the increase in population and industry coming here between now and 1960."

Featuring in the big expansion program for 1956 is the completion of the submarine cable which will bring electricity to Vancouver Island from the mainland grid.

This inter-connection is estimated to cost $5,100,000, while another $1,800,000 will be spent on various Vancouver Island installations.

The new generating plant at Seton lake, with 58,500 hp capacity, was due for completion by the early fall of 1956, while the company will spend $9,000,000 of a total of $15,000,000 on natural gas installations in the next 12 months.

Other expenditures planned are:

Generation of electricity	$15,900,000
Construction and enlargement of substations, mainland	10,500,000
Transmission plant, including land, Mainland	10,900,000
Distribution and other electrical plant, mainland	4,600,000
Electric line and service extensions, mainland and Vancouver Island	9,400,000
Urban transportation, Greater Vancouver, New Westminster and Greater Victoria	500,000
Railway system	1,800,000
New office building, Vancouver	4,400,000
Other joint service facilities	1,100,000

IRON DEAL PENDING

The Quatsino Copper-Gold Mines Ltd. report that it is in negotiation with Japanese steel interests for long-term sale contracts of iron ore from its Vancouver island property.

The iron ore at Quatsino's deposits near Quatsino sound is magnetite of good grade and with negligible impurities.

When the company completed its exploration program in 1953 it estimated its reserves at 1,045,137 tons of 57.6 per cent average, and a further possible tonnage of 1,500,000 of similar ore.

The Japanese steel industry is said to be looking for new sources of iron ore following the recent closing of short-term contracts for iron ore from Texada island.

Share Exchange Profits International Utilities

NEW YORK (CP) — International Utilities Corporation had consolidated net income in the nine months ended Sept. 30 of $3,625,223, or $3.23 per common share compared with $2,757,291, or $2.59 a share, in the corresponding period last year.

The report to shareholders says that within the next few days the company expects to receive $1,107,425 in cash and 57,528 shares of Canadian Oil Companies Ltd. common stock in exchange for International's investment in 402,700 common shares of Anglo-Canadian Oil Co.

At present quotations, the report said, this exchange would result in a net profit, on a consolidated basis, of about $1,600,000.

International Utilities is a holding and investment company with subsidiaries distributing natural gas and electricity in western Canada.

Good lambs 16-16.50.

Montreal Retreats

MONTREAL (CP) — The stock market retreated irregularly in slow trading Friday. Some ground was recovered during the final hour, and a number of gains ranging to over a point were noted at the close. Mines and western oils drifted to generally softer territory in moderate dealings.

The miscellaneous, pulp and paper and base metal sections were irregularly lower, and banks and beverages weakened in a fractional range. Steels had a majority of loses and utilities were firm. Senior oils were mixed in a minor fractional range.

Banks Report Higher Savings

OTTAWA (CP)—Savings on deposit in Canada's chartered banks at Oct. 31 amounted to $5,839,000,000 against $5,757,000,000 at Sept. 30 and $5,337,000,000 at Oct. 31, 1954, the chartered bank statement for October showed Friday.

Call and short loans in Canada amounted to $233,000,000 at Oct. 31, as against $177,000,000 at Sept. 30 and $293,000,000 at Oct. 31, 1954.

B.C. Stocks Gain

VANCOUVER—British Columbia industrial stocks closed on the higher side in a session of more than average activity.

Powell River added over $1 at $55⅛. Canadian Collieries was up ⅛ at $14. B.C. Forest Products closed at $15⅞ after trading at $16.

Home Oil was stronger at 8.75 but the gas stocks attracted little attention.

Most mines were lower, but Bralorne tended higher at $5.85.

Week's Gold Price

OTTAWA (CP)—The finance department reported Friday that the mint's price for a fine ounce of gold is $35.00875 based on the week's average exchange rate of 1.00025. Gold is fixed at $35 an ounce in U.S. funds.

Dollar Reserves Fall

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's gold and dollar reserves fell by $14,000,000 during November, the treasury said Friday. The reserves stood at $2,283,000,000 on Nov. 30.

C. D. Howe Warns:

B.C.'s Hydro Development Should Not Be Piecemeal

British Columbia should not take a "piecemeal approach" in the development of the province's vast hydro power potential, Trade Minister C. D. Howe said last night.

"We must seek a perspective and look at all the potentialities ... ment if we are not to make mistakes and deprive future generations of Canadians of the benefits that will accrue from a sound and integrated development of our resources," he said.

He told a near-capacity crowd of 800 in the Central Junior High auditorium that the government has taken more control over international waterways to ensure that future developments "are carried out in an orderly fashion and in a manner that will best serve the national interest."

BILL 3 DEFENDED

The minister defended the International Rivers Bill (Bill 3) which Premier Bennett has charged as responsible for blocking a big hydro-electric development by the Frobisher Ventures group of companies in the northwestern part of the province.

Mr. Howe stated that there was "absolutely no relation between Bill 3 and the Frobisher activities in the Taku and Nass river areas.

The federal government would be "on the same side" as B.C. if international complications in the development required action by the Joint International commission on waterways, he said.

He said he foresaw no trouble to Frobisher obtaining a licence in the area when the time came.

The minister said that water resources should not be given away for the long term "and certainly not in perpetuity."

CANADA FIRST

"We must first find out whether we can make effective use of these water resources within Canada. If it is in our national interest to increase the downriver utilization of of water in another country, as a result of works undertaken in Canada, then we must make sure that Canadians obtain benefits commensurate with the water resources thus being provided for our neighbors."

Speaking earlier in the evening on trade, Mr. Howe said that surplus food would be sold to Communist countries as well as others "as long as they pay us for it."

Defending Canada's sale of butter to a Dutch importer for resale behind the Iron Curtain, he said the butter would have gone bad in storage anyway, and that Canadian housewives would not have wanted it at any price.

He said that the butter involved in the sale was more than a year old.

"LOOK AT FIGURES"

Mr. Howe said that interests that complain of the government's "neglect" of west coast ports should "examine the figures."

He gave three reasons for a "remarkable" increase in grain traffic westward in recent years. They were the Prairie bumper crop, an "even break" on prices for west coast ports given by the Canadian Wheat Board, and encouraged trade with Japan, which is now Canada's second largest customer for grain.

Mr. Howe said that no province ... expanding more rapidly than B.C. With the coming of natural gas service and developments of other resources of "this rich heritage," he said the province is on the threshold of "even more spectacular growth."

The trade minister will address delegates to the annual convention of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. and the B.C. Engineering Society at a luncheon at 12.15 p.m. today in the Empress hotel ballroom.

C. D. HOWE

Red Cites 1066 —And All That

RANGOON, Burma (CP)—Nikita Khrushchev, secretary of the Russian Communist party, said Friday that to England the Burmese are "savages and barbarians."

Khrushchev said this while resting in the 2,000-year-old Temple of the Golden Pagoda after climbing nearly 200 steps to reach its main part.

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, touring Burma and India with Khrushchev, sat silent as the party secretary first admired the temple's wood carvings, then said to a Burmese official.

"England did not exist before William the Conqueror. Your temples are 2,000 years old and they're only 1,000—yet they call you savages and barbarians. How difficult history is to change—because there are some people who refuse to change it."

(In London, Sir George Young, chief spokesman at the foreign office, called Khrushchev's statement "ludicrous.")

Khrushchev then began an exchange with newspaper correspondents who had been listening to his remarks. Through his interpreter, the Russian asked:

"Who is the French correspondent here? You should turn pink with shame."

"But I would like to remain white," retorted Roger Pierard of Agence France Presse.

Khrushchev shot back: "According to your political color you can remain even black, but if one has faith and shame, one should turn Red."

The Russian then turned to colonialism:

"We Russians are the only ones that are always fighting for the cause against colonialism."

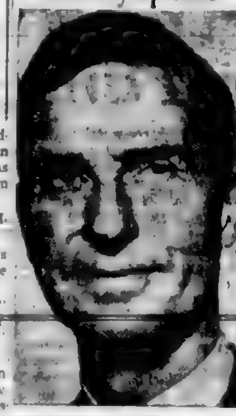

"What about East Germany?" ... correspondent asked.

"What about Latvia and Estonia?" asked another.

"You don't know what's going on inside East Germany," Khrushchev replied. "What the East Germans are doing you would not understand because you are a paid slave writer of capitalism. If you wanted to write something good about Russia you would starve to death—because the capitalist press would refuse to print it.

"Russia always tells the truth. But when we tell the truth the colonizers don't like it. They don't like the name 'truth.' We will always be doing and saying the truth because we don't like colonialism."

Berlin Pledge

West To Stand Fast

BERLIN (AP)—The Western powers told Russia Friday they will hold their bridgehead in divided Berlin until all Germany is united.

U.S. Ambassador James B. Conant reiterated this pledge at a press conference in which he also spoke for the British and French ...

"The position of our governments in regard to the status of Berlin is unchanged. We insist that the quadripartite status of Berlin remain unaltered."

Conant conferred with the U.S. Berlin staff and with German city officials during his visit to explore the incident which stirred the latest East-West conflict here—the detention of two U.S. congressmen and two other Americans by Communist police and Russian guards in East Berlin last Sunday.

The ambassador said he was, like the U.S. commandant in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Charles L. Dasher, amazed at the stand Soviet commander P. A. Dibrova took toward the incident. Dibrova said the radio-equipped army car used by the congress... laws of the East German Communist republic.

Space Styles Worry Tailors

LONDON (AP)—Tailor and Cutter, the fashion magazine which instructs smart Englishmen what to wear, protests that the space suits which artists draw to dress their interstellar travellers aren't stylish.

Voyagers to other planets should make a good impression when they arrive the magazine says, otherwise what would the folks of Mars think of Savile row? So it has announced a contest for a design of a good-looking space suit.

The first prize: All clothing trading rights in the whole of the Andromeda nebula. Tailor and Cutter says that if an American company can sell real estate on the moon it feels that it can dispose of a few trading concessions in the galaxies.

Hatred Called Aim of Reds

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States and Portugal said last night that Soviet leaders are trying "to foment hatred between the East and West" on their current visit through Asia.

The two nations issued an unusual joint statement asserting bluntly that such activities "do not represent a contribution to the cause of peace."

The statement was issued by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Portuguese Foreign Minister Dr. Paulo Cunha at the close of Cunha's three-day visit here.

Soviet Discusses Geneva, Far East

MOSCOW (UP) — Russia's Supreme Soviet (parliament) was summoned yesterday to meet in an unusual session presumably to consider developments at Geneva and in the Far East.

The session beginning Dec. 26 will be the third this year. No official agenda was announced, but authoritative sources said the assembly will consider the following:

1. A report from Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and Soviet Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev on their current tour of India, Burma and Afghanistan.

2. A report from Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov on the recent Big Four foreign ministers' conference at Geneva, and a general discussion of foreign policy.

3. Adoption of the current five-year plan.

The convening of a third session in one year was considered highly unusual. Until recently the Soviet usually met only once a year. Consequently, foreign observers expected significant developments to come out of this extraordinary session.

Among other things, the observers believed it not unlikely that the assembly would make another dramatic appeal to ban nuclear weapons and an offer to discontinue hydrogen bomb tests.

Plane Takes A-Plant On Experimental Trip

WASHINGTON (UP) — An atomic power plant has been carried aloft by an airplane for the first time in history, speeding the day when the United States will launch its first nuclear powered aircraft.

General Electric Corp. announced Friday at Cincinnati that an air force B-36 bomber had carried the nuclear reactor in its nose during tests understood to have been held at Fort Worth, Tex. The experiment tested materials for protecting crews against radiation.

The reactor did not power the plane, which was flown by conventional engines. But Washington officials regarded the test as an important advance in the race to develop an atomic-powered plane.

Sources close to U.S. atomic developments have predicted that the first U.S. atomic plane will wing through the air some time in 1958-59.

The East German radio said on Oct. 14 that Russia expects to fly an atomic-powered plane in the "near future."

Youth Found Guilty

VANCOUVER (BUP)—An Assize court jury deliberated only 23 minutes Friday before returning a verdict of guilty in the murder trial of Donald Graham, 21.

Graham was convicted of kicking 21-year-old Robert Holman of Vancouver to death during a fight in the city's Kitsilano district earlier this year. Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson sentenced Graham to be hanged Feb. 21.

It was Graham's second trial on the charge. The jury at the first trial was unable to reach a verdict.

Sapphire Acquires Ventures Interests

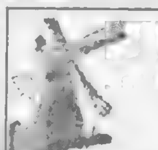

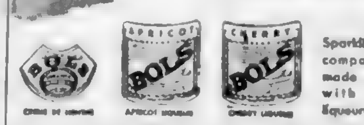

TORONTO (CP)—Sapphire Petroleums Ltd. has completed arrangements for the purchase of several million dollars' worth of shares of companies associated with the Ventures Ltd. organization, Sapphire president Maxwell Goldhar announced Friday in a letter to shareholders.

The deal gives Sapphire interest in Hoyle Mining, which controls Opemiska Copper, in Consolidated Sudbury Basin Mines, Lake Dufault Mines and in Chemical Research Corp.

Mr. Goldhar said financing would be arranged through the issue of new convertible debentures.

Russia Imports Czech Uranium

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Uranium exports to the Soviet Union are an "important part" of Czech-Russian trade, a foreign trade review quoted by the Czech news agency Ceteka said Friday.

Awards Voted By Screen Fans

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Leaders in balloting for the theatre-goers' favorite screen players and movies were named yesterday preliminary to announcing of the actual winners in the first annual audience awards election next Tuesday.

The five leaders in the "best male actor" division were the late James Dean, Marlon Brando, Henry Fonda, Glenn Ford and William Holden.

The quintet of leaders in the "best female performance" category were June Allyson, Doris Day, Judy Garland, Jennifer Jones and Grace Kelly.

Films favored for the best picture award were "Battle Cry," "Blackboard Jungle," "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing," "A Man Called Peter," and "Mr Roberts."

Gold "Audie" statuettes will be presented to the winners next Tuesday in four categories and for the best pictures.

The other two classification leaders were: most promising new male personality—Harry Belafonte, Tab Hunter, Jack Lemmon, Jack Palance and Fess Parker; most promising new female personality Joan Collins, Peggy Lee, Dorothy Malone, Terry Moore and Kim Novak.

Elmer C. Rhoden, national chairman of the awards committee, said 14,000,000 ballots had been received nationally when the voting ended last week.

JUNE ALLYSON DICK POWELL

Wife Obeys Husband Around Set, Anyway

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Dick Powell is in the position enviable to some husbands of being able to tell his wife what to do for eight hours each day.

Powell is producing and directing a new musical version of "It Happened One Night." The stars are Jack Lemmon and June Allyson, who happens to be Mrs. Powell. That means that Powell is her boss during studio hours. Afterwards? Well, that's another matter.

So far, the experience seems to be going along fine, despite the show June occasionally puts on to titillate the onlookers. When he raises his voice to give directions in a scene she'll snap.

"Don't shout at me. We're not at home you know."

But foolishness aside, she expresses admiration for her day-time boss.

"He's so talented," she rhapsodizes. "He can do everything better than we can. He can act better, he can sing better. The only thing he can't do is dance better. That's his weak suit."

Over the centuries enough mud has been dredged from the Thames estuary in England to build another Great Wall of China.

Film Rivalry Forgotten

Card Drive Aids Needy

By HAROLD HEFFERNAN

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—The Motion Picture Relief Fund's Christmas card drive is 20 per cent ahead of record-breaking 1954 when a total sale of 113,000 greetings netted the screen's charity group $8,500. Profits help maintain the home-hospital for old-time film folks and other industry needs.

Again this year, orders are coming in from all over the nation as well as foreign countries. Four well-known American artists have contributed originals for 1955: Noel by Charles De Ravenne, Christmas Portrait by Walt Disney, The Backdrop by Edward S. Haworth and Camera Caper by Gene Johnson. Any of the four, with personalized greeting, can be purchased for $17.50 per hundred.

Last year, more than 200 prominent Hollywoodians made use of the modest cards in a growing trend to wipe out the rivalry among them to see who could whip up the most expensive Yuletide messages.

Sunday School Star's New Career

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Film town's greatest tap dancer has put away her scanty costumes and black net stockings to become a Sunday school teacher.

Hollywood's sexiest dance star, now devotes her free time to church work and Bible study. In addition to her weekly class for eight-year-olds at the Beverly Hills Presbyterian church, the former glamour girl conducts a special Sunday afternoon television show titled "Faith of Our Children."

"I've always been religiously inclined," the blonde, blue-eyed ex-hoofer said. "I still have a white Bible I won for perfect church attendance when I was a girl in Springfield, Massachusetts.

"Really, my participation in church work grew when I took my son Peter to church nursery class six years ago. When I saw how much help was needed I asked if I could lend a hand.

"From then on things just happened."

Empress of Australia Starts Last Voyage for CPR Monday

QUEBEC (CP)—The Empress of Australia arrived in Quebec Friday with some 600 troops and dependents on her last voyage with Canadian Pacific Steamships.

The 19,600-ton liner will be put up for sale on the open market on her return to Liverpool. She sails Monday on the return voyage to England.

Formerly the French Line ship DeGrasse, the 31-year-old Empress of Australia was bought by Canadian Pacific in February, 1953, to replace the Empress of Canada which was burned out a month earlier at a Liverpool dock.

The Australia will be replaced next spring on the Liverpool run by the new 26,000-ton liner Empress of Britain, launched earlier this year by Queen Elizabeth.

A single-funnel ship built at Birkenhead, England, the Empress of Australia was reconditioned in 1947. The French Line had operated her on the Le Havre-New York run and on cruises to the West Indies ... pool to Montreal and Quebec.

Eskimo Stars Free on Bail

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Two backfield stars of the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos Friday were remanded on $100 bail on charges of common assault. The remand will allow them to play for the West in today's East-West all-star Shrine game in Toronto.

Johnny Bright, 25, and Ray Willsey, 26, were arrested by police late in the day.

The charges were laid by Kenneth Aspden, about 25, of Hamilton, who told police he was punched and kicked by the two members of the Western Interprovincial Football Union all-star team in a downtown bar Thursday night.

Alex Mackay, justice of the peace, remanded Bright and Willsey until Monday. Each posted $100 bail.

Bright, a 210-pound former All-American fullback, played at Drake University. He joined the Eskimos in 1954 after playing with Calgary Stampeders for two years. A defensive star for Edmonton, he scored two touchdowns in last Saturday's Grey Cup game in Vancouver. He is from Fort Wayne, Ind.

Willsey, a halfback, is a Canadian-born player who learned his football at the University of California. He joined the team three years ago. Willsey lives in Santa Ana, Calif.

Bright said that eight of the western players had gone to a tavern for a few drinks.

"We were sitting at a table when a fellow kept coming over and bothering us. He would pick up sandwiches from our table and make insulting remarks.

". . . Suddenly he turned and took a pose at Jackie Parker. Then he hit me. Naturally we don't have to take that sort of thing."

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of the western team said it was an unfortunate incident but one which frequently occurs when well-known athletes appear in public.

"Someone always wants to pick a hassle with them," Ivy said. "We have never had any trouble with the boys on our team all year."

The western team practised in Hamilton this week in preparation for today's game.

Attorney-General Interested

Police Training Parley Set

The provincial attorney-general's department has shown interest in a proposal to standardize police training in the Greater Victoria area.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said yesterday Attorney-General Robert Bonner has agreed to meet police commissions in Greater Victoria to discuss the question.

Reeve Wurtele said that while no date has been set for the meeting, Mr. Bonner has "expressed interest."

Such a system of standard training, the reeve said, might eventually include all municipal police forces in the province.

Reeve Wurtele said the Esquimalt police commission felt police training and promotion here has been on a "hit and miss" basis.

He said police commissions in Greater Victoria have discussed standardization and agree that it is worth investigating.

Police training up to now has been done by individual forces holding their own classes under the supervision of former provincial police inspector Richard Harvey.

Occasionally different municipalities have joined classes when there were sufficient students to warrant it.

Planners Exasperated — Other Business Held Up

One Year of Zoning Talk Produced—a Yacht Pool

This article is the last in a series of six reviewing the past four years of city council action and inaction and aimed at helping the voters of Victoria to choose wisely in the forthcoming elections.

By R. O. MARRION
Colonist City Hall Reporter

Zoning probably has cost the city council more time in the past year than any other single subject.

But little of major consequence has been accomplished, except the exasperation of the Victoria Town Planning Commission, the frustration of the commission's chief council advocates, and the delaying of other council business.

Half a dozen times during the year after much debate, council—usually by a narrow margin—has rejected town planning commission recommendations on rezoning of particular areas.

This is not an unusual situation. Planning commissions are apt to be more idealistic than councils, and less conscious of tax income and popularity at the polls.

Repeated rejection of town planning commission recommendations admittedly was one of the reasons for the resignation of the commission's chairman, Maj. H. C. Holmes, toward the end of the year.

But Maj. Holmes said he was [illegible] aware as anyone that the commission was an advisory body. The chief cause of his resignation was that council had not pushed ahead with the new zoning by-law for the whole of Victoria on which the commission has labored for five years.

In recent weeks, much of the blame for "blocking" the zoning by-law has been placed on Mayor Harrison—for the reason that he upheld Ald. Robert Macmillan's right to demand and secure clause by clause study of the proposed by-law by council.

The mayor could not have done otherwise, although the blame falls on him easily because of his obvious and somewhat incongruous antagonism to the planners.

Somewhat incongruous, because the mayor, like the town planners, is an advocate of beautification. The mayor has been one of the chief proponents of a more beautiful Victoria—apparently the only advocate of a model yacht pool at Holland point—but has disliked town planning from the start.

A clue to his attitude may be a plank from his first platform: "Less oppressive laws and regulations."

[illegible] may be his obvious aversion to non-elected boards doing the city's thinking.

When a capital region planning board was proposed in 1952, the mayor said it would be "a fifth wheel on the carriage."

When he was elected for his second term in 1954, he took a jab at the proposed new zoning by-law, which had been put before council in 1953.

"We must restrict building as little as possible," he said.

The by-law didn't get any farther in 1954 than it did in 1953.

But in 1955, it nearly has been passed. The mayor could be blamed for delaying it when he took obvious pleasure in putting the town planning commission in its place, in the summer, over proper procedure. But even its supporters could also be blamed, for their reluctance to acknowledge the need for thorough—and public—study.

Aldermen M. H. Mooney, Arthur Dowell and W. F. Pinfold in particular with the obvious support of City Manager C. C. Wyatt who conveyed the impression that city department heads were happy about the draft were leaders in the movement for holus-bolus adoption of the by-law. "Amendments can come later. It's very flexible."

But the mayor upheld Ald. Macmillan in his single-handed fight for detailed study.

And when, at a meeting in the mayor's office, Building Inspector William Osterink was asked what he thought of the measure, he recalled he had been asked the same question before and had replied:

"It stinks."

That opinion from the man who will administer the by-law, and the long and sometimes furious debate that preceded and followed it, resulted in council ordering a study by city hall department heads.

The study was completed, and resulting recommendations were being taken into consideration when aldermen met to begin their own clause by clause study.

But the study went around on the rocks of proper legal form and phraseology.

Zoning, it appears, may well occupy council early in 1956, again to the exclusion of other city business, unless council can be led, whether by new mayor or aldermanic organizer, to persistent, cohesive and systematic work.

* * *

In beautification other than that produced by regulation, the mayor has been an enthusiast.

Like Aldermen Geoffrey Edgelow and Macmillan and Waldo Skillings he has pressed for improvement of the waterfront. But he has gone his own way in some of the actual waterfront development.

The pool dubbed Harrison Yacht Springs will be a monument to that.

When the first year's $50,000 capital city grant was given to Victoria last year for beautification, the job of recommending what to do with it to the provincial government was put in the hands of a six-man committee.

The mayor, Ald. Dowell and Mr. Wyatt were named city representatives. When the committee decided to beautify part of Dallas road by clearing and road-and-curb construction, there was no howl from council.

But this year, Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated clearly that he would be happy to see the grant used for construction of a civic auditorium. The committee closed its collective mouth about its plans—even its chairman, Deputy Municipal Minister J. E. Brown.

When Ald. Macmillan asked council to advise the committee that it would like to see the grant used to build an auditorium, the mayor thundered that such a move would kill the goose that laid the golden egg.

The grant, he said, was given by the government for what it chose to do, and "I think we should leave it alone."

Ald. Pinfold joined in to assert that council could have nothing to say about how the grant should be spent, and Ald. Mooney agreed with him. They, therefore, are at least partly entitled to share credit with the mayor for the egg the goose in due course laid—the yacht pool that graces the Victoria waterfront.

Some of the members of the grant committee have since then defended construction of the yacht pool on the grounds that they had received no direction from city council.

Ald. Macmillan's resolution was referred to the finance committee, headed by Ald. Pinfold.

That was when Ald. Macmillan threw up his hands in disgust and exclaimed:

Nurserymen Send Out SOS To Government for Cash Aid

Victoria and district nurserymen are asking the provincial government for financial assistance owing to severe stock loss in early November's unseasonable cold.

Spokesman for the Vancouver Island Association of Nurserymen said last night:

"We want low interest loans for those who have been nearly wiped out. Some of us have gone to the banks, but when they ask for collateral, we have to admit our stocks are ruined. Loans are not possible."

The nurserymen estimate the lower Island loss at more than $100,000.

They have presented a brief to Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan, now in Vancouver, urging relief action, but have had no intimation of government policy.

Greenhouse men here in some instances lost their entire flower crops.

HOLLY HARD HIT

Holly growers, too, suffered severely, perhaps to 50 per cent of their crop.

Berry growers won't know until spring how badly they are hurt.

B.C. nurserymen, including the big industry in the Vancouver and Fraser Valley areas, estimate their aggregate loss at $1,000,000.

Sewer Meeting Called

Ex-Councillor A. E. Horner, anxious to allow residents an opportunity to question council members on the Saanich sewer situation, has arranged a meeting for Dec. 9 in the CCF hall on Douglas.

"People will get a chance to meet the new candidates, too," he said.

He has invited all Saanich candidates for reeveship and council to speak.

Mayor Seeks Chance To Maintain Tax Line

Mayor Claude L. Harrison, seeking his third term of office virtually without a campaign, said yesterday that one of his main aims if re-elected will be to keep the tax rate from increasing.

"Whatever the present rate will raise will have to be used and distributed, and I think it should be sufficient," he said.

"I'm going to go on reducing the per capita debt until we stand away down on the list of Canadian cities."

POSITION LOST

"We have a larger per capita debt still than most cities in Canada, but in my four years in office it has been reduced from $2[illegible] to $221.05. We no longer are in first place on the list of cities of comparable size."

Mayor Harrison also said he had "matters of importance" before both the provincial and federal governments and that Premier W. A. C. Bennett had promised "a good deal" for Victoria.

"I would like to have time to get these outstanding matters completed," he said.

There are other points, he said, on his program and his past record.

He will try to keep water rates down.

"It is my intention to save your pennies and I am making real headway."

AN EVEN KEEL

Victoria has won a federal grant of more than $20,000 and a beautification grant from the provincial government of $50,000 in each of the past two years.

"We need improvements to the sewer system, a new Point Ellice bridge, and changes at the Fountain Circle. I am confident all these things can be done without increasing the tax rate if you will allow me to complete outstanding negotiations."

City To Give Half Cost Of Baskets

Finance committee will recommend to city council that the city contribute $625 toward hanging baskets of holly and evergreen bought downtown in the Christmas season.

This sum will be half the cost. The other half will be borne by the retail merchants' group of the Chamber of Commerce which suggested the new touch to the city's famous hanging flower baskets.

Trees in the interior can be shipped at will. It's only against the law on Vancouver Island and the coast due to the high quality timber grown here.

In the interior Christmas tree cutting is big business.

More than 2,160,000 Christmas trees were cut and shipped from B.C. last year with a value exceeding $920,000. Majority of trees went to the U.S.

"Any Christmas tree on sale in Victoria and cut on Vancouver Island property must have come from private land," the official continued. "If there was no control many thousands of Douglas fir would be lost."

Planners Exasperated

Other Business Held Up

One Year of Zoning Talk Produced—a Yacht Pool

This article is the last in a series published by The Daily Colonist, reviewing the past four years of city council action and inaction and aimed at helping the voters of Victoria to choose wisely in the forthcoming elections.

By R. O. MARRION
Colonist City Hall Reporter

Zoning probably has cost the city council more time in the past year than any other single subject.

But little of major consequence has been accomplished, except the exasperation of the Victoria Town Planning Commission, the frustration of the commission's chief council advocates, and the delaying of other council business.

Half a dozen times during the year after much debate, council—usually by a narrow margin—has rejected town planning commission recommendations on rezoning of particular areas.

This is not an unusual situation. Planning commissions are apt to be more idealistic than councils, and less conscious of tax income and popularity at the polls.

Repeated rejection of town planning commission recommendations admittedly was one of the reasons for the resignation of the commission's chairman, Maj. H. C. Holmes, toward the end of the year.

Maj. Holmes said he was as well aware as anyone that the commission was an advisory body. The chief cause of his resignation was that council had not pushed ahead with the new zoning by-law for the whole of Victoria on which the commission has labored for five years.

In recent weeks, much of the blame for "blocking" the zoning by-law has been placed on Mayor Harrison—for the reason that he upheld Ald. Robert Macmillan's right to demand and secure clause by clause study of the proposed by-law by council.

The mayor could not have done otherwise, although the blame falls on him easily because of his obvious and somewhat incongruous antagonism to the planners.

Somewhat incongruous, because the mayor, like the town planners, is an advocate of beautification. The mayor has been one of the chief proponents of a more beautiful Victoria—apparently the only advocate of a model yacht pool at Holland point—but has disliked town planning from the start.

A clue to his attitude may be a plank from his first platform: "Less oppressive laws and regulations."

At first this be his obvious aversion to non-elected boards doing the city's thinking.

When a capital region planning board was proposed in 1952, the mayor said it would be "a fifth wheel on the carriage."

When he was elected for his second term in 1954, he took a jab at the proposed new zoning by-law, which had been put before council in 1953.

"We must restrict building as little as possible," he said.

The by-law didn't get any farther in 1954 than it did in 1953.

But in 1955, it nearly has been passed. The mayor could be blamed for delaying it when he took obvious pleasure in putting the town planning commission in its place, in the summer, over proper procedure. But even its supporters could also be blamed, for their reluctance to acknowledge the need for thorough and public study.

Aldermen M. H. Mooney, Arthur Dowell and W. F. Pinfold in particular (with the obvious support of City Manager C. C. Wyatt, who conveyed the impression that city department heads were happy about the draft) were leaders in the movement for public hearings before adoption of the by-law. "Amendments can come later. It's very flexible."

But the mayor upheld Ald. Macmillan in his single-handed fight for detailed study.

And when, at a meeting in the mayor's office, Building Inspector William Osterink was asked what he thought of the measure, he recalled he had been asked the same question before and had replied:

"It stinks."

That opinion from the man who will administer the by-law, and the long and sometimes furious debate that preceded and followed it, resulted in council ordering a study by city hall department heads.

The study was completed, and resulting recommendations were being taken into consideration when aldermen met to begin their own clause by clause study.

But the study went around on the rocks of proper legal form and phraseology.

Zoning, it appears, may well occupy council early in 1956, again to the exclusion of other city business, unless council can be led, whether by new mayor or aldermanic organizer, to persistent, cohesive and systematic work.

* * *

In beautification other than that produced by regulation, the mayor has been an enthusiast.

Like Aldermen Geoffrey Edgelow and Macmillan and Waldo Skillings, he has pressed for improvement of the waterfront. But he has gone his own way in some of the actual waterfront development.

The pool dubbed Harrison Yacht Springs will be a monument to that.

When the first year's $50,000 capital city grant was given to Victoria last year for beautification, the job of recommending what to do with it to the provincial government was put in the hands of a six-man committee.

The mayor, Ald. Dowell and Mr. Wyatt were named city representatives. When the committee decided to beautify part of Dallas road by clearing and road-and-curb construction, there was no howl from council.

But this year, Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated clearly that he would be happy to see the grant used for construction of a civic auditorium. The committee closed its collective mouth about its plans—even its chairman, Deputy Municipal Minister J. E. Brown.

When Ald. Macmillan asked council to advise the committee that it would like to see the grant used to build an auditorium, the mayor thundered that such a move would kill the goose that laid the golden egg.

The grant, he said, was given by the government for what it chose to do, and "I think we should leave it alone."

Ald. Pinfold joined in to assert that council could have nothing to say about how the grant should be spent, and Ald. Mooney agreed with him. They, therefore, are at least partly entitled to share credit with the mayor for the egg the goose in due course laid—the yacht pool that graces the Victoria waterfront.

Some of the members of the grant committee have since been defended construction of the yacht pool on the grounds that they had received no direction from city council.

Ald. Macmillan's resolution was referred to the finance committee, headed by Ald. Pinfold.

That was when Ald. Macmillan threw up his hands in disgust and exclaimed:

Another example of this do nothing council.

Chief Defended By Commission In Parking Issue

Members of the city police commission rallied to the defence of Police Chief John Blackstock yesterday in the face of a demand by William C. Moresby, Jr., for a full explanation of why some parking tickets are apparently being "fixed."

Controversy over the reported "fixing" arose Thursday when it was disclosed that 161 meter tickets had been torn up by the chief during October.

A special meeting of the police commission, city hall officials and representatives of parking meter patrol commissionaires was told also that 3,875 tickets were issued in October and 473 were cancelled on the spot by commissionaires.

Mr. Moresby demanded to know, after the meeting, what the chief's reasons were for whom the tickets were issued to.

Mayor Claude Harrison, police commission chairman, said he had complete trust in the chief, adding that it was common sense that he should use discretion in cases of being able mistakes.

"Any law can be enforced to the point of absurdity," he stated.

NO CHALLENGE

The mayor said he would not challenge the action of commissionaires.

"There's no doubt they are acting quite honestly," he said.

Any hint of corruption—"which I do not anticipate"—would make it a different story, the mayor stated.

Police Commissioner W. J. Hamilton said there is "no fixing" of tickets by the department, only legitimate cancellations.

Commissioner Gordon Carter said he won't order the chief to give reasons for his action.

"I'm positive he has done nothing wrong," he said.

But Mr. Moresby said he would press for answers to his questions when the chief returns to the city.

Mainland growers are also asking government relief.

They say many will be unable to stay in business without government aid, according to J. H. Eddie Vancouver nurseryman.

DIRE SITUATION

"It is the worst situation we have had to face in 50 years," he said.

As in Victoria, shrubs and flowers were hardest hit.

Strawberry damage in the Fraser valley is the worst in history, agricultural department officials say, and may well be serious here.

Mumps Total Now 84

Recent outbreak of mumps in Victoria has brought the year's total to 84 cases, 66 of them in November and 47 of them in the last week.

Victoria-Esquimalt medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy said most of the cases have been among grade 1 children. There have been no adult cases considered more serious, she said.

Dr. Mahaffy said that the total will probably climb in the next month but there was no cause for alarm. Actually totals are less than many previous years.

Big year was 1952 when 1,374 cases were reported for the full 12 months. In 1948 there were 146 cases, in 1949, 282; 1950, 258, and in 1951, 330. After the big 1952 total it dropped to only 60 cases in 1953 and 57 in 1954.

If this year's total reaches 200 by the end of December it will still be less than average.

CBC Ruling 'Silly'

Fairey Backs Demand For TV Station Here

Growing demand for a private television station here was supported by Victoria Liberal MP Dr. Frank Fairey yesterday as the government announced appointment of a royal commission to study private and CBC radio and television.

Dr. Fairey was "confident" that the commission would come to Victoria.

Chamber of Commerce president G. F. Dunn said his group would speak before the commission "if the demand warranted it," but because their TV applications are scheduled to go before CBC governors in January, the two city radio stations would not state if they will make presentations.

Dr. Fairey disclosed that he wrote to Ottawa "a few days ago" asking that television channel 8 be allotted to Victoria.

He said the recent CBC ruling that reception of a Victoria TV station be limited to this area was "silly . . . It wouldn't be commercially possible."

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich said he felt sure "the examination of the commission will justify establishment of a television station in Victoria."

He and CJVI manager William Guild agreed that a separate body to supervise both CBC and private stations was necessary.

CKDA president David Armstrong hoped the commission would recommend establishment of private stations in CBC-occupied areas and provide for a choice of stations where outlets have already been established.

He felt this would "allow CKDA should it get a license to operate at the maximum power of 100,000 watts on channel 6."

New Vote Bid Made To Settle Span Issue

City council's public works committee recommended yesterday the presentation of a money by-law to city ratepayers as early as possible in the new year for construction of a new Point Ellice bridge.

The committee will ask council at its next meeting, Dec. 12, to instruct the city solicitor to draw up the by-law.

The committee tried unsuccessfully recently to have city voters asked in the forthcoming elections if they favored borrowing $300,000 for 10 years to help pay for a new bridge.

The mayor vetoed the action saying that it was wrong to ask all the voters for their opinion of a project for which only the ratepayers would have to pay.

The committee, Ald. M. H. Mooney said yesterday, should go on record that it had met Public Works Minister R. H. Winters and he had "definitely stated we could not look for any assistance from the federal government in building the bridge."

Ald. D. J. Smith said that "every hour of every day" that a new bridge was delayed, we are endangering the lives of the people.

Aldermen Mooney and Austin Curtis, however, said they could not agree with him in that respect.

Christmas or Not . . . . . . You Must Have Permit

Spare That Tree Daddy or You're in Trouble

By PETER BRUTON
Colonist Legislative Reporter

That young Douglas fir which would make such a dandy Christmas tree could land you in a forest of trouble.

Every year about this time hundreds of Victoria residents take to the roads in search of young trees to grace living rooms over the Christmas holidays. But it's strictly against the law.

"We're sympathetic towards the father who wants to take his youngster out to cut a tree," explained a forestry department official, "but we have to protect the future forest crop."

A young fir suitable for a Christmas tree sells for from 50 cents to $2. By the time it has reached maturity, however, it is valued in the vicinity of $1,000 at the mill.

"Young trees cut for Christmas are used for a week or two then wind up in the incinerator," said the official. "We feel the land here is capable of producing a much more valuable crop than Christmas trees."

People who cut trees on Crown property are liable to a hefty fine in addition to paying the value of a matured tree.

It is also an offence to cut trees on private property unless written permission has been received from the owner.

"Anyone who has a tree in his car would be wise to have a written note of permission from the property owner," an official said. "If they can't prove where the tree came from, they're for it."

Trees in the interior can be lopped at will—it's only against the law on Vancouver Island and the coast due to the high quality timber grown here.

In the interior Christmas tree cutting is big business.

More than 2,160,000 Christmas trees were cut and shipped from B.C. last year with a value exceeding $920,000. Majority of trees went to the U.S.

"Any Christmas tree on sale in Victoria and cut on Vancouver Island property must have come from private land," the official continued. "If there was no control many thousands of Douglas fir would be lost."

Pink Flowers Decorate Church

Pink chrysanthemums at the altar and the pews provided the decoration in St. Aidan's church when Sonia Rose, daughter of Mr and Mrs William Zozula, 3614 Richmond road, exchanged marriage vows with Mr. John Edgar Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wood, 530 View Royal avenue. Rev. Lynn Clearihue officiated at the recent evening ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of white lace and net, the skirt sprinkled with sequins and the long sleeved jacket with sequin trimmed Peter Pan collar. Her shoulder length veil fell from a sequin studded headdress and she carried a bouquet of pale pink roses and white feather carnations. A double strand of pearls, a gift from the groom, completed her charming ensemble.

Miss Anne Zozula, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. She chose a gown of pale gold crystalline styled with off the shoulder neckline and carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums matching the flowers in her headdress.

Mr. Alfred B. Wood, brother of the groom, was best man and Mr. Peter Zozula, brother of the bride, acted as usher.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents where yellow and white chrysanthemums were used to decorate the living room. A three-tiered wedding cake topped with pink sweetheart roses centred the bride's table and was flanked by candles with white chrysanthemums at the base.

For a wedding trip to Seattle, Wash., the bride travelled in a charcoal grey wool dress with white angora collar, beige topcoat, winter white shoes and purse, red hat and gloves.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood are now making their home at 250 Plowright road, View Royal.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. Frank Van Der Linde, Nanaimo, and Mrs. P. Skory and daughter from Vancouver.

St. Mary's Christmas Sale Raises Approximately $800

St Mary's Church Women's Guild put on a successful Christmas bazaar in the church hall yesterday afternoon when the proceeds totalled approximately $800.

The hall was brightly decorated in the Yultide motif and even the candy stall was in line with light green and red boxes holding the delectable chocolates and home made fudge.

Very Rev. Brian Whitlow, Dean of Christ Church Cathedral, officially opened the bazaar and the guests were welcomed by Mrs. A. E. deL. Nunns and Mrs. R. A. Wotton, guild president.

All the stalls offered attractive goods for sale. The gift stall was popular with the many who attended and the table of hand knitted children's wear also was well patronized. A little over an hour after the sale opened the home cooking stall was bare except for the Christmas cake to be won by the person who guessed the correct weight.

Mrs. H. Napier-Hemy was general convener of the bazaar. Tea, convened by Mrs D F C MacArthur, was served at individual tables, gay with a little spring of berried holly. Pouring tea were Mrs. R. W. Gibson, Mrs. L. Phillips, Mrs. T. Watt, Mrs. E. V. Bird, Mrs. H. Wood, Mrs. J. S. Snowden, Mrs. F. J. Cowdery, and Mrs. W. O Joy.

Assisting with the tea were Mrs. H. E Hemmons, Mrs. H V. Littler, Mrs J Fehler, Mrs H M Long, Mrs C K. Saunders, Mrs I Ogston, Mrs H S Hughes and Mrs. W A. Woodward.

Miss Frances Price convened the gift stall and was assisted by Mrs. W. E. Plummer, Mrs. C. F. Watson, Mrs. H. Hamlet, Mrs. A. T. Cowley and Mrs. E. Wainwright. The candy was convened by Mrs C W Duce, who was assisted by Mrs A L. Harvey, Mrs. R T. Mackay, Mrs H S Hughes and Miss N MacDonald.

Mrs. W. Redford looked after the home cooking and her assistants were Mrs. O. J. Williams, Mrs. T. M. Hughes, Mrs. E. V. Bird, Mrs. W. Taylor and Mrs. T. W. Kensington. Mrs. H. B. Forster had charge of knitted wear and was assisted by Mrs. J. H Watson, Mrs J. S Rigby and Mrs. G. H. Richardson.

The garden and flower stall was convened by Mrs. J. Hamilton and her helpers were Mrs. F. H. Swayne, Mrs. J. J. Harris and Mrs. G. D. Chambers. Mrs. C. J. Bunbury convened the book stall and was assisted by Mrs. J. Davenport and Miss D. Bunbury.

Mrs. W. K. Willis was in charge of linens, assisted by Miss M. Ashworth, Mrs. E Jones, Mrs. W. F. U. Copeman, Mrs. C. T. Teasdale, Mrs. W. Taylor, Mrs. W. R. Shearing and Mrs. T. S. Whittmore. Aprons were convened by Mrs. L. L. Healey who was assisted by Mrs. C. J. Houghton, Mrs. V. T. S. Stoddart and Miss E. S. M. Melville. Members of the AYPA had a stall with canned goods for sale.

SARDINE CREOLE CANAPE SPREAD

Drain canned sardines and mash. To contents of each tin add one tablespoon lemon juice, a dash of tabasco, one teaspoon horseradish, two tablespoons chili sauce. Mix well and spread on crackers, toast fingers or rye wafers. Garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

Carnarvon Women's Guild First Bazaar Makes $435

The first Christmas bazaar and tea to be held by the Carnarvon women's guild at the Carnarvon church hall took place on Wednesday and realized over $435. The affair was opened by Mrs. A. E. deL. Nunns who with president Mrs. Wood and Mrs. J. Snowden, welcomed visitors.

The hall was decorated in a Yuletide theme centred by a beautifully-lit Christmas tree for the children. The many stalls contained countless gift items, one of the attractions being a mincemeat stall with 50 pounds of mincemeat being made by the guild members.

The bazaar was convened by Mrs. C. Webster assisted by Mrs. R. Dunn, Mrs. W. ..., Mrs. R. Stacey, Mrs. Harrap and Mrs. T. Wollison, with Mrs. Smithson in charge of the tea arrangements.

More than 300 guests were served tea downstairs where again the decorative scheme was of Christmas. Pouring at the head table centred with a spray of red and silver poinsettias, were Mrs. G. Brown, Mrs. R. Wootton, Mrs. J. Snowden and Mrs. C. Teasdale.

The Christmas cake guessing contest was won by Mrs. R. Pritchett and the door prize by Mrs. Woodley.

Centennial CGIT Bazaar Dec. 10

Centennial CGIT will hold a bazaar on Saturday, Dec. 10, in the church hall, Gorge road and David street at 2.30 to 4.30 p.m. Attractions will include a fashion show, home cooking, handicrafts, candy and white elephant stalls. Tea will be served.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' hospital will meet on Monday, Dec. 5.

Kate Aitken Marks 21 Years on Air

TORONTO (CP)—"I'm not brilliant nor intellectual, nor am I an extraordinary woman," said one of Canada's top women commentators, who celebrates Monday her 21st broadcasting anniversary.

Though she was surrounded by 16 secretaries, eight of nine books she has written and countless souvenirs of 1,115,000 miles of travel, Kate Aitken said in an interview Friday she is not a career woman. She just has an incurable interest in people.

In search for news of interest to women, the 64-year-old grandmother from Beeton, Ont., has travelled Canada from coast to coast dozens of times, to Europe 63 times and around the world three times.

Her 21st anniversary broadcast Monday morning, to be heard over a countrywide network, will be her 12,000th. She has reported by radio such events as the wedding and coronation of Queen Elizabeth, the royal tours, the dedication of the air forces memorial at Runnymede, England, Christmas celebrations of Canadian troops in foreign countries and the Holy Year at Rome.

CAREER A FLUKE

Yet Mrs. A., as she is known to her radio audience, said she never intended to make radio [illegible] it happened [illegible] fluke. As a 16-year-old she was interested in teaching at Beeton, a village 48 miles north of here which has a population of 400 "counting cats and dogs."

After marriage seven years later she took up family and poultry raising.

The first door to her radio career opened when two of her White Wyandotte hens broke the world's egg-laying records. The Ontario department of agriculture asked her to describe to farm groups in the province the care she gave hens that laid 306 and 324 eggs in a year.

Gives up [illegible] with 12,000 broadcasts

With that tour ended she embarked on a second to Charlottetown to conduct cooking schools and her first broadcast.

When she reached the island capital a radio station asked her to substitute for its women's commentator who had taken ill. After five programs she was approached by a sponsor to do a regular stint.

For the first 11 years Mrs. Aitken [illegible] weeks for a Toronto station. She began her daily trans-Canada programs in 1948.

In her spare time Mrs. Aitken has written nine books. She has planned a 10th book, a story on the Canadian West.

Plan Tombola

GANGES—The monthly meeting of the CWL was held recently in the church hall of Our Lady of Grace with the president, Mrs. H. Milner, in the chair and 15 members present.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $[illegible].

Final arrangements for the annual military five hundred and tombola were made at which Mrs. L. Brenton will be in charge of refreshments. Her assistants will be Mrs. H. Milner, Mrs. I. Hughes, Mrs. L. M. L. Walters, Mrs. A. F. Moret, Mrs. Betty Pappenberger and Miss Stena Brenton.

Refreshment hostesses for the evening were Mrs. W. Jameskinerd Mrs. B. La Fleur.

Perlon Hose Mere Wisps At $10 for Two Pairs

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK (UP)—A week in Manhattan:

Women already cover their legs in cold weather with wispy weaves of nylon so sheer every goose pimple shows. Now they can reveal even more, if it's possible.

New stockings made of Perlon, a synthetic nylon yarn closely akin to nylon, arrived this week from abroad. They are [illegible] a synthetic nylon yarn denier, which in simple language means they are almost invisible.

Denier refers to the thickness of the thread. We started out wearing 40 denier nylon stockings in 1940 and recently have worn as low as 10 denier. Gauge refers to the closeness of the weave. A 90 gauge stocking uses 90 needles for each one and one-half inches of stocking. The thinner the thread or lower the denier number, the higher the gauge, since the stockings must have enough elasticity to wear a little while at least.

Hans Thierfelder, president of the ARWA Corp. of Germany, arrived along with the first shipment of the new Perlon stockings. Thierfelder came directly from Paris (pronounced Parris), South Africa, where he has a plant. He said the American stockings would be made in a new plant in Berlin. He meant, as it turned out, Berlin, N.J.

Sheerness doesn't come cheap. The Perlon wisps will cost $10 for two pairs. You can't buy just one pair, for a reason Thierfelder didn't make clear.

An American company (Dexdale) has been making 75 gauge seven denier stockings on a strictly experimental basis since last summer for $1.95 a pair but has sold them only in one exclusive Fifth avenue store. The Perlon stockings will be sold nationally.

Cathedral Guild Plans Candlelight Bazaar, Tea

The monthly meeting of Christ Church Cathedral Women's Parish Guild was held in the Memorial hall lounge Friday afternoon when nominations for executive officers for the ensuing year took place.

The agenda also contained completion of plans for the Christmas candlelight tea and bazaar to be held on Saturday, December 10. Mrs. H. E. Sexton will open the proceedings at 2:30 and there will be a wide variety of attractive items and novelties for Christmas shoppers, children as well as adults. [illegible] with a large Christmas tree. Carol singing by boys of the Cathedral choir under Mr. Graham Steed will also form an attraction.

A special candlelight tea is also being planned to further enhance the Christmas atmosphere.

Parisian Cinderellas Seeking Love Are Helped by American Woman's Bequest

PARIS (NANA)—Long concerned about the high cost of living, the French have finally gotten around to doing something about the high cost of loving. The Virginia Bell foundation, which grants dowries to poor but deserving Parisiennes [illegible] announced that its next awards will be 50 per cent higher than last year.

The attractive combination of love and money with which the foundation concerns itself is a modern version of the dot, the traditional marriage portion that a girl brings to her husband. As currently operated, it constitutes a type of scholarship for aspiring brides, with awards of $400 and $600 to those who meet the qualifications.

The administration of public assistance in Paris, which directs the operation of the foundation, will say only that Virginia Bell was an American woman who lived in Paris. Her request of an unspecified sum given to the French government for administration, carried with it anonymity so far as she herself is concerned. But the organization that bears her name has carried on the good work since 1920, giving material assistance to some 10 potential brides every six months.

Currently, under consideration [illegible] "conducted" of good reputation and between the ages of 21 and 29. They must have lived in Paris for three years and in one of the poorer districts for the past year. They must practice a regular profession. And they must marry a Frenchman within three years after having been named to receive a grant. Only one in 100 has failed to achieve the last goal once so enriched.

Under the newly increased grants only five girls will receive dots for the latter half of 1955, the winner to be announced during the first two weeks in January. Competition is not so stringent as might be expected. Foundation personnel, in fact, are mildly puzzled at the small number of applicants for these matrimonial windfalls.

One reason may be that the poster-conscious Paris the announcements have been [illegible] under masses of political and entertainment notices. Or perhaps the ordinary day-to-day [illegible] [illegible] the burden of applications, references and interviews by the service de visiteurs [illegible] Paris is as [illegible] of love [illegible] out of money as ever.

Typical winners, according to the foundation's director, are working girls doubling as part-time parents for a large family of brothers and sisters. [illegible] however, is [illegible] of opportunity for husband-hunting [illegible] of the ability to save money for setting up housekeeping by the [illegible] the applicant's good or bad looks have no bearings [illegible] the dot of Madame Bell is intended not so much as a device for catching a husband as it is a reward for [illegible] [illegible] is something of the fairy tale about the current set of Cinderellas. Amid falling governments, rebellious colonies and the other troubles that have [illegible] postwar France, the idea of an American fairy godmother encouraging love and rewarding virtue is one of the brightest prospects of the season [illegible] year. Somewhere in Paris there are five Cinderellas waiting to be touched with the 35-year-old wand of Virginia Bell.

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

Practically as many girls marry in the fall as in the busy summer-month of June. This may be a time however when fading tanning and drying take their toll so every effort should be made to appear your beautiful self if you're taking that walk down the aisle this season. To look your most glamorous self on your nuptial day, [illegible] these main points to follow.

Make certain your complexion is as even-toned as the satin you will probably wear by using a fluid make-up. It should be natural looking and yet cover freckles or a fading tan. Selecting a warm color to harmonize with your own skin color will brighten your face in the grey light of a high-vaulted and dimly-lighted church or room where the ceremony is to be performed.

For most occasions the matted finish for your complexion is best. This is easily accomplished by the usual procedure of applying face powder over your foundation make-up and brushing off the surplus. If however you are to march down a candlelit aisle, you will have greater glowing beauty if your face has a sheen. Do not try to attain this by leaving off [illegible] powder or the finished effect will be lost. Instead, apply your face powder as usual and then with a sponge dampened with skin freshener, press on the liquid and let it dry. This gives you a [illegible].

Your eyes express the depth of your happiness, so make [illegible] eyelash make-up. If your wedding is scheduled for [illegible] or in a well-lighted church, give [illegible] a little more emphasis than you would for a special [illegible] occasion. If your wedding is scheduled for evening at home or in a dimly-lighted church, dramatize your eyes. You might even outline them softly with an eyebrow pencil and use a little eyeshadow. Whether you wear white or a pastel use a blue eyeshadow or, if brown eyeshadow is the color that gives you the most beauty, use it and then apply a narrow band of the blue tone along your upper eyelashes for effect.

Lips should be bright. According to your coloring and the bridal shade you will wear choose a [illegible] rose shade [illegible] of these will look naturally warm and lovely during the day and will hold their warmth and brilliance in the greyest light. If the wedding takes place in candlelight, add a slightly darker outline over your lip line and blend with a lipstick brush. Be sure it is a color-fast lipstick. Apply lipstick while standing and lean over dressing table so that fumbling fingers won't drop it down and mark your gown.)

Into your little white bridal purse tuck a compact with pressed powder so that you will not spill some powder over your gown when you want to touch up make-up.

WI Bazaar Raises $145

The Craigflower Women's Institute annual Christmas bazaar held recently in the View Royal Community Hall was most successful. Proceeds amounted to more than $145.

Winners of the three contests were Mrs. R. Ribble, Miss Nina Knott and Mrs. N. Crossland.

Institute members in charge of the various stalls and activities were Mrs. W. Gouge, candy; Mrs. A. C. Burnett and Mrs. J. Rant, home cooking; Mrs. R. B. Rant, bingo; Mrs. B. Pegg and Mrs. C. Allan, fancy work and Christmas presents; Mrs. O. Sandford, pot holders; Mrs. J. Pegg [illegible], bran dip; Mrs. G. Cosh and Mrs. J. Albany, kitchen; and Mrs. A. Gray was general convener.

Paris Design

This afternoon dress in fine black wool features a high waisted effect with soft draping. A deep neckline of white mink is repeated on the flat hat, which is worn with a black wool jersey hood. (AP Photo.)

In Russia . . .

Mines, Farms, Streets, Part of Women's Work

MOSCOW (Reuters) — In Russia, a woman's work is never done, but it's not at the kitchen sink. Babushka, the grandmother, takes care of the household chores, looks after the kids and lines up patiently at the food stores. If there [illegible] there are [illegible] kindergartens where the children can be left.

For mother is off to work.

Armies of working women, married and unmarried, can be seen here daily in dungarees, kerchiefs tied around their [illegible] on their faces. They drive or service tractors, [illegible] trucks and even [illegible]. They work as furnace [illegible] building laborers.

High above street level, balanced on scaffolding, women are laying bricks or dabbing paint on new buildings in Moscow.

There's the army of the [illegible] hands of poorly paid girls from the country who appear [illegible] white aprons after midnight each night to sweep and wash the city streets.

Man Injured As Tire Burst Hurls Stones

PORT ALBERNI—A truck tire which blew up in his face as he stopped to examine a bulge on it sent an employee of Toms Bros. Ltd. to hospital yesterday morning.

Ross Hansen was treated for [illegible] at West Coast General hospital after the freak accident and was released.

He was making a fuel delivery in South Port Alberni when noticing the tire bulge, he bent over the rear wheel. As the tire exploded rocks were thrown into the man's face.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Representatives of School District 72 met this week to name the following trustees: Cyril Hague, J. D. Iaci, both of Campbell River, H. E. Stafford, Sayward, and Mrs. R. V. M. Luoma, Quadra island.

Quadra island representatives stated a new high school is needed on the island. Campbell Falls representatives asked for an additional teacher and those from Bendickson urged that a new two-room school be built in the district to keep pace with population growth.

* * *

COURTENAY—Winners of awards and scholarships presented recently to students of Tsolum school were Shirley Leisch, John Fremont, Verna McCabbing, Ruth Hague, sports, John Bowbrick, public [illegible] Hague best all-round student.

* * *

CUMBERLAND — Officers of the Cumberland branch of the Canadian Legion elected at the recent annual meeting were: president, Jack Thompson; vice-presidents, Ralph Gibson, Jr., and H. Henry; sergeant-at-arms, F. Watson; treasurer, C. H. Poole; secretary, G. Wood. Executive: E. Ethier, G. Stephenson, G. Pimm and J. Vaughan. Past president is C. A. Cousins; honorary president, Mayor William Henderson.

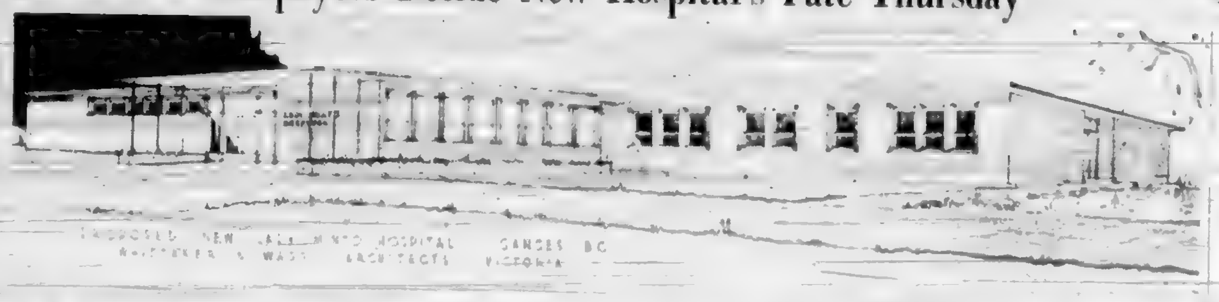

* * *

LADYSMITH—Trustee Raymond G. Chamberlain of Saltair was re-elected trustee for a two-year term at the representatives' meeting this week of the rural portion of School District 67 (Ladysmith).

Mr. Chamberlain has been on the board for five years and served a two-year term as chairman in 1953 and 1954.

Robert Hewitt was [illegible] John Stewart who resigned as rural representative for the Diamond district and Victor Dale [illegible] to represent the Ladysmith Crescent area, succeeding John Ulinder.

Ratepayers Decide New Hospital's Fate Thursday

Gulf Islands ratepayers will vote Thursday on a bylaw providing for construction of this new hospital to replace 41-year-old Lady Minto Gulf Islands hospital at Ganges, Salt Spring Island. One-story concrete building will provide 24 adult and children's beds and facilities for surgical and medical care. Provincial and federal government grants are expected to make up two-thirds of total cost of $272,485. Hospital board has offered to subsidize sea-going ambulance service from various Gulf islands to hospital.

Wolf Shot On Street

LADYSMITH (CP) — A large timber wolf, larger than an Alsatian dog, ambled down Fourth avenue in the upper portion of the residential district Thursday morning.

It was killed by John Tietrzykowski.

Water District Set In Parksville Area

PARKSVILLE—In order to [illegible] to finance such a large [illegible] some 43 potential water consumers just outside the eastern sections are included in the new boundary of Parksville village waterworks district. [illegible] Plans call for a deep well [illegible] to be dug some 200 feet from the west bank of Englishman river from which water will be [illegible] to a 12,000-gallon [illegible] tank. [illegible] Tenders will be called [illegible] for waterworks [illegible] and for ditching and [illegible] work.

November Building Well Ahead of 1954

City building permits issued in November kept the total for the year well ahead of the 1954 figure although for the month the total was down both from October and from the previous November.

The building inspector's office issued 366 permits in November for construction with a total value of $491,911. In October [illegible] were 847 permits for $[illegible].

But the November construction brought this year's 11-month total to $8,192,657 in the city. Last year the 11-month total was $6,928,089.

Industrial Workers Hurt

CAMPBELL RIVER—Two men injured in separate industrial accidents were reported in satisfactory condition at Lourdes hospital here last night.

Donald McCallum of Willow Point is receiving treatment for severe lacerations to his right arm caught in a diesel engine at the Argonaut Mining Company operations where he is employed.

Jack Pouncet, employed on construction of the B.C. Power Commission powerhouse at Ladore Falls, is being treated for second degree burns to his face and hands. He was reported standing by a fire when a fellow employee threw oil on the blaze, causing an explosion.

* * *

PARKSVILLE—One of the coldest days ever recorded in November by Parksville weatherman G. M. Bernard was Nov. 18 when the mercury dropped to seven above zero.

There were several other days in that week almost as cold and three inches of snow was recorded.

Total precipitation for the month was 6.88 inches, slightly more than the 10-year average of 5.19 inches.

* * *

QUALICUM BEACH—Increase in the municipal area will raise land assessment values by $6,700 and improvements by $11,912 according to a report to ratepayers by J. Craig Reid, chairman of the village commission. [illegible] full assessment figures have not yet been received from Victoria. Estimated revenue is approximately $51,667. 95 per cent of current taxes have already been paid. Forty-three building permits valued at $146,000 were issued during the year.

* * *

PARKSVILLE — Constable Gerald Griffin, RCMP, who has been stationed at Parksville for the past three years, has been transferred to Prince George, B.C.

Constable Roy L. Woodfin has been transferred from Port Hardy to Parksville to replace Constable Griffin.

* * *

QUALICUM BEACH—Officers re-elected at the annual meeting of Central Vancouver Island Resort Owners' Association were: David Saunders, president; Mrs. Ida Puterbaugh, first vice-president; S. M. Little, second vice-president; Murray A. Cree, secretary-treasurer. Committees appointed [illegible] Thomas Hatfield, [illegible] Mrs. Hynes; membership, D. TV Talk

By ROY PARRETT

Last Saturday's exciting Grey Cup game will be repeated this afternoon on channel 2 by popular request. The game will be carried in its entirety, beginning at 1.30.

Today's all-star east versus west battle in Toronto is also being recorded for television, and will be seen here Sunday afternoon. [illegible] players selected from the WIFU conference and gridiron favorites of the Big Four will be aired by CBUT tomorrow afternoon at 12.30.

"Well, first of all, he likes Jackie Gleason and I like Perry Como."

Another unscheduled feature, bound to please the children, is telecasting of Toronto's mammoth Christmas parade, a highlight of the winter season in eastern Canada for many years. The big story book parade will be seen on channel 2 this afternoon at 3.30, following the replay of the Grey Cup game.

THE BOX SCORE Broadcasting [illegible] Grey Cup game helped make up the [illegible] for the Canadian football classic. Gross receipts were $285,000.

Of this amount $[illegible] came from [illegible] rights, $20,000 from [illegible] and $[illegible] from [illegible].

The financial success of this year's game [illegible] a return of the Grey Cup fixture to Vancouver some experts predict.

* * *

STORY OF MOVIES—Walt Disney [illegible] the interesting history of motion pictures and [illegible] the early picture machines on [illegible] 2 [illegible] 5.30. The beautiful "Nutcracker Suite" segment from "Fantasia" will also be featured.

ANIMAL HUNTING—The adventurous story of men who must capture wild beasts [illegible] for [illegible] and actual films of their methods will be seen on channel 5's "I Search For Adventure" at 7.

HAREM COMEDY—Paulette Goddard and Gypsy Rose Lee are seen in the [illegible] movie [illegible] Bagdad, a [illegible] the old Middle East, on "Fantasies From Fiesta" at 7 [illegible] on channel 5.

VARIETY HOUR—There is a [illegible] and his fine show on channel 4 [illegible] on channel 2 or Gordon MacRae's [illegible] on channel 11 [illegible] at 8 o'clock.

TEXAS WRESTLING—[illegible] one of the attractions in the ring on channel [illegible]

LAWRENCE WELK SHOW—[illegible] ballad, "The Rose Tattoo" [illegible] Hooper play "Keyboard Chopsticks" and [illegible] the chorus sing "Everybody's Doing It" on this hugely popular, hour-long musical show on channel 5 at 9.

CANDLELIGHT THEATRE—Fred MacMurray and Eleanor Parker star in "[illegible]" a rags-to-riches comedy on channel 12 at 10.30.

RAF STORY—Eddie Albert and Robert [illegible] star in "Eagle Squadron" on channel 11 at 11 p.m.

MEXICAN MOVIE—"Kill Him For Me," an award-winning South American picture, is the channel 4 feature at 11.05.

LATE SHOW—Another murder story "Paid to Kill" with Dane Clark is on channel 5 at 11.30.

SPECIAL TELECASTS—Don't forget the repeat of the Grey Cup game at 1.30 today, the big Toronto Santa Claus parade at 3.30, and the East-West Canadian All Star game, to be seen Sunday at 12 noon, all on channel 2.

Full Naval Honors Set In Lillie Rites Monday

Full naval honors will be accorded Lieut Cmdr (E) Brian Macdermott Lillie, RCN at his funeral from McCall's Monday at 11 a.m.

Coffin will be put on a gun carriage and taken to services at Royal Oak crematorium.

Lieut Cmdr. Lillie died suddenly Wednesday evening while being taken to hospital from his home, 121 Wildwood.

He was supervisor of reconstruction on HMCS Ontario.

Surviving are his widow Rita, at home; a son Brian, at home; a daughter, Mrs. A. C. Morgen, Victoria; a sister, Mrs. A. F. Sarratt, Victoria, and another sister in London.

Lieut Cmdr. Lillie was born in Bangkok, Siam, 59 years ago and had lived in Hong Kong some years. For the last 30 years he had made his home in Vancouver and Victoria.

Police Hide Rape Suspect From Public

LEWISTON, Ill. (AP) — A taxicab driver who confessed the rape-slaying of an eight-year-old girl was taken to a power station Thursday by authorities who feared the "passions" of the populace might be aroused.

Lloyd E. Miller Jr. 29, a handsome curly-haired cab driver of Canton, Ill., broke down after days of questioning and admitted he beat and raped little Janice May at Canton last Tuesday.

Musician, Wife To Entertain For Chamber

Xylophonist William El Cota and his wife Beatrice, and comedienne and singer Fran Gregory will be entertainers at the annual Victoria Chamber of Commerce Christmas party to be held at the Empress hotel at noon Dec. 16.

The party is open to all chamber members, their wives and friends, but attendance will be limited to 300 persons. There will be prizes and free turkeys galore, chamber manager Hector Crombie said last night.

MONUMENTAL WORK

John Mill's famous "Greek testament," published by the English theologian in 1707 was the fruit of 30 years' labor.

Two Die In Floods

MONTPELLIER, France (AP) — Floods caused by heavy rains and sudden mountain rivers have caused two deaths and cut road traffic in southwestern France.

'Auf Wiedersehen' Composer Dead

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Goodhart, 50-year-old songwriter and pioneer radio entertainer, collapsed and died on the street Wednesday night near his home. His best known tunes included "Black Eyed Susan Brown," "Johnny had a ...," "Who Walks in when I Walk Out," "Auf Wiedersehen, My Dear," and "Fit as a Fiddle."

He had no support for hearts; he couldn't see bidding a four-card spade suit at the two-level, especially when he had a six card club suit. But that six card suit was too shabby to warrant bidding as a free bid at the three-level. So since North had opened the bidding fourth-hand and would hardly be likely to sell out for a mere two diamonds, South remained temporarily quiet. [illegible] ... He reasoned that East's strength must be largely in diamonds and that its defensive value would be largely nullified by West's own ... West's king of hearts was of doubtful value ... However, South was able to trump the second round of diamonds and with good play managed to make ten tricks. He took an immediate heart finesse, then led to his queen of spades. West made matters difficult by ducking this trick. South took another heart finesse and then led a low heart to guard against a bad break. East trumped with the ten and South overruffed. South led his last trump and the best the opponents could do was make the ace of spades and a club trick. But the game hadn't been bid and the tenth trick was worth only 30 points, instead of [illegible]

Police May Lay Charge Of Attempted Murder

Special to the Colonist

QUALICUM BEACH—A 64-year-old man may be charged with attempted murder following the shooting of two brothers here yesterday afternoon.

The man, Daniel Francis O'Connor, was arrested last night and is in custody at Nanaimo.

The brothers, Daniel Parker, 15, and William Parker, 25, are both in hospital with bullet wounds in their arms. They were shot with a .22-calibre rifle.

The shooting took place about two blocks from the Qualicum Beach Hotel and a block from the CNR station.

Three shots were fired at Daniel, the younger brother, and one at William, it was reported.

LEAPED FROM BUSHES

Police said the shooting occurred when Daniel was on his way home from school. A man was reported to have leaped from the bushes and forced the young brother at gun point to accompany him up the road.

By chance Daniel's older brother came along in a car seconds later. Police said he leaped from his car, ignored threats and went after the man.

The man then fired three times at Daniel, wounding him in the hand and arm. He turned and fired once at the older brother and hit him in the upper arm.

REMOVE BULLET

Doctors were to operate last night to remove the bullet from the older brother's arm. Both brothers were reported out of danger last night.

Train Crash Kills 12

BARNES, England (AP)—Twelve persons were killed Friday night when a speeding suburban train packed with returning theatregoers plowed into a stationary freight train and exploded into flames.

More than 30 other passengers of 150 aboard the train were taken to hospital, many with serious burns.

Victims screamed as they fought to escape from the overturned front car of the passenger train as it hit the freight under a bridge near this suburban town, eight miles west of London's centre.

The impact shorted the electric cars' power circuit and the front coach was demolished. The short-circuit sent gigantic sparks soaring into the sky like rockets. Flames lit up the sky for miles around.

FLAMES SPREAD

Moments later the flames spread to rear cars of the freight train.

Passengers trapped in the blazing wreckage screamed for help as the flames quickly took hold.

Ambulances and fire engines rushed to the tracks to aid in rescue work and the flames were reported under control within a half-hour.

Reward for 15 Years of Courage

While his wife and mother wept, A. C. Packford—a polio convalescent—realized the ambition of half a lifetime. He received from the hands of Dr. H. C. Gunning, president of the Association of Professional Engineers and dean of applied science at UBC, his engineering certificate. He had studied for it for 15 years, interrupted by war and illness, following his UBC graduation. At the Jubilee hospital bedside ceremony were his wife, his mother, Dr. Gunning, and his proud father, Percy Packford.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

'Thank God for TV'

Child Saves Family From House Blaze

By CHRIS FOSTER

Seven-year-old Lorraine Robinet, staying up to watch television, gave the alarm last night when fire struck at her home at 432 Powell.

"Thank God for television," said her mother, Mrs. Carol Robinet, who was sleeping after a hard day's work.

Lorraine's nine-year-old sister, Dolores, was in the bath, and her brother, David, five, was in bed.

All three children were safely evacuated and spent the night with neighbors.

HUSBAND OUT

Mrs. Robinet's husband, Sgt. Bert Robinet, Queen's Own Rifles, was preparing a regimental dinner at his barracks at the time.

Flames severely damaged the living room, where dark-haired Lorraine was sitting, and the kitchen.

"The fire started in the basement," said Lorraine.

"It was just after nine o'clock. I tried to wake David and my mother. They wouldn't wake up, but I kept shaking them. They soon got up when they realized there was a fire."

Her sister, Dolores, said: "I had just got out of the bath when I heard Lorraine shouting.

"I opened the bathroom door and saw the smoke. I rushed into the living room and grabbed a blanket to put around me."

One of the Robinet's two pet budgerigars was saved but the other escaped and was lost.

The family's dog, Micki, also escaped.

Pearson Spotlights Red Plot

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson, in his first speech to a Canadian audience since returning from Moscow, said Friday the Russian leaders "want more than anything else to detach Canada from the United States."

He said the Western democracies should now "concentrate more on the political and economic aspects of co-operation at least as much on the military."

Warning that the Soviet Union's views of "peaceful co-existence" was in effect a "conflict without arms," he said:

"We must above all realize we're going to have to live with this situation for a long time—this isn't a sprint. It's at least middle distance."

Hunter Takes His Medicine On the Hoof

TWEED, Ont. (CP)—When farmer Burtell Bradshaw planned a two-week hunting trip he came face-to-face with the problem of supplying fresh milk for his ulcer.

He solved it by taking along his source of supply.

He hitched his best cow on the wagon before making the seven-mile trip through the bush.

The cow, he said later, seemed to enjoy the holiday as much as he did.

Church Uses Sales Force

VANCOUVER (CP)—United Church of Canada Friday announced it was adopting modern business methods to attract about 60,000 new members a year.

Naval Move Aired

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility of a semi-active naval reserve was discussed Friday at the annual naval defence conference.

The one-day conference sponsored by the Naval Officers Association of Canada discussed the possibility of a reserve made up of specialists who would be available for immediate mobilization in the event of a national emergency.

The closed meeting, under the chairmanship of T. R. (Tim) Durley of Montreal, was held at naval headquarters. Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, chief of naval staff, and other high-ranking naval officers addressed the former navy officers on various aspects of navy policy, development and operations.

Icy Disaster Menaces Ships

MONTREAL (CP)—A few ships struggled along the ice-clogged canal system to Montreal harbor Friday, but nearly 50 others remain behind a closing winter trap.

The weatherman predicted freezing weather again Friday night in the Lachine-Soulanges canals district, where heavy ice has been forming for several nights.

A queue of ships in the 22-mile system moved at a snail's pace toward the harbor. Twenty of them are ocean ships, bound for the open sea before the freeze-up. Shipping men say they will face disastrous losses if the ships are forced to winter inland.

Workers toiled away at jammed lock gates, trying to chop away the ice with long, steel-tipped poles. A canal spokesman said the ships would be moving at the rate of at least one an hour under normal conditions but only two or three lakers managed to get through Friday during daylight hours.

Feared most by ship-owners is an order that would close the canals before the scheduled Dec. 10 deadline. No official comment has been made by the transport department on this possibility.

Some 50 inland and ocean freighters were blocked in the canal system from the bridge at Cote St. Paul to the western end of the Soulanges waterway at Coteau Landing.

Iron Curtain Trade Urged

CALGARY (CP)—The Alberta Wheat Pool Friday unanimously endorsed a resolution calling for trade with countries behind the Iron Curtain.

The recommendation, adopted in the final day of the pool's annual convention, said that despite criticism from some quarters, Canada should be prepared to trade with all countries, including Iron Curtain satellites.

Fire Chief

PARIS (UP)—Premier Edgar Faure today called a new election Jan. 2 to decide the struggle for political power between himself and Pierre Mendes-France.

'Hot Potato' Discussed

B.C. Labor Spokesman Urges Policy of Tariff Protection

VANCOUVER (CP)—A powerful segment of British Columbia's labor force believes Canada should boost tariffs and restrict imports to strengthen and expand her industrial economy.

"We realize tariff policy is a hot potato, but the economy is far too open and a more closed economy would be better for Canada," said Owen Mason Friday in advancing the view of the 50,000-member Vancouver and District Trades and Labor Council (TLC-AFL) before the Gordon economic commission.

The five-member commission, charged with the job of predicting the shape of the Canadian economy over the next quarter-century, now has completed its three weeks of western hearings. It will tour the major central Canadian cities in January, sitting in Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa, before writing its report.

Accompanying council secretary-treasurer R. K. Gervin, he slim, 35-year-old Mr. Mason, council statistician and graduate of the University of London, astonished the commission with his grasp of the intricacies of monetary and fiscal machinery.

He challenged the forecast of James Coyne, governor of the bank of Canada, of a gross national product of $55,000,000,000 by 1975 and offered calculations to show productivity could rise to $80,000,000,000 without serious inflation through deficit financing and tax cuts.

He trod boldly in the field of unemployment, estimating that labor need not be alarmed as long as the country's number of jobless remains below three per cent of the labor force.

He suggested also that Canadians may be rather "puritan" in taking investment risks and proposed insurance companies be given greater power to diversify their investment holdings.

'Comrade Lord Mayor . . . . . And Fascist Warmongers'

Red Chiefs' Tour Wins British Jibes

(From AP, UP)

LONDON—Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev may have been winning friends in Asia but their visit to India has cost them a loss of dignity in many British eyes.

The visit of Premier Bulganin and party chief Khrushchev to London, planned for the spring, already is the subject of biting newspaper humor. A cartoon in The Daily Mail showed a pudgy Khrushchev addressing a stiffly formal banquet in London's ancient Guildhall. The Communist boss begins: Comrade lord mayor, reactionary lords, ladies and imperialist fascist warmongers." Bulganin and a guest resembling Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the "Red" Dean of Canterbury, look pleased.

Historian Alan Taylor, a columnist in The Daily Herald, referred to the Russians as "the two knockabout comedians who have just been touring India."

Taylor deplored the suggestion it would be better if Bulganin and Khrushchev did not come to London in view of their attacks on the West before Indian audiences.

"On the contrary," Taylor wrote, "I can hardly wait to hear some new pearls of their wisdom."

A semi-official organ of the Church of England said it strongly opposed the scheduled visit.

The newspaper, in an editorial on the current tour of the Soviet leaders, asked its readers if they really wanted "this circus" to visit Britain.

"Are we to line the streets, mouths agape, while Khrushchev clowns with his hat and shouts 'British, Russians, bhai, bhai'?" the newspaper asked. (Bhai is Indian for brothers. Cheering crowds in India last week hailed the Soviet visitors with cries of "Indians, Russians, bhai, bhai!")

"Or," continued the newspaper, "are we to cheer to the echo the man who has just accused us of starting the last war by employing Hitler and his troops against Russia . . . ?"

Khrushchev, the newspaper said, "does not impress as a genius, but even he in his sober moments may appreciate certain things."

"Bring him to London for a visit will not alter those truths and will only confuse the issue because it will not correspond with any realities."

Noted Columns Coming

The two outstanding columnists in their fields in North America — by almost unanimous choice — appear in The Daily Colonist tomorrow for the first time.

John Crosby, the famous critic of television and radio, will be found on the entertainment pages. Red Smith an observer of the sports world for more than 30 years, will bring his syndicated column, Views of Sport, to the sports page.

Mr. Crosby writes four columns a week, and Red Smith contributes six. They will run on a regular basis except when the subject proves to be of little interest to Vancouver Island readers.

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Walter Gieseking, the German pianist who recently made a North American tour, was severely injured in a bus crash that killed two persons and injured 13 others near here Friday.

Threat to Spawning Fish

Group Declares Fraser Dam Would Kill $50,000,000 Industry

VANCOUVER (CP)—Construction of power dams on the Fraser river would wipe out British Columbia's $50,000,000-a-year salmon fishing industry, a newly-formed conservation group said in a statement here Friday.

The organization, known as the Preserve Our Resources Society, criticized proposals to build a series of hydro dams along the Fraser and suggested instead a full investigation of the upper Columbia river, which has no fish problem.

A. E. Grauer, president of B.C. Power Corporation, said in July last his company was surveying possible power sites at 10 points along the Fraser and Thompson rivers.

The resources society said power dams would delay salmon moving upstream to spawning grounds.

"Delay of even a few days can cut down spawning efficiency of salmon as much as 40 per cent. Any longer delay usually results in the death of fish before they reach the spawning ground," the society said.

Although the group estimated the cost of a power line from Mica creek on the Columbia to Vancouver would be twice that of a line from Cisco, 170 miles northeast of here, the conservationists said long-line, high-voltage transmission of electricity had been proved practical for distance up to 1,000 miles in Sweden.
